THE CRIMINAL CODE.

When the Criminal Code of Canada shall be overhauled it will be necessary to review all the various phases of modern progress and modern requirements in full and intimate relationship. The report presented to the Canadian Bar Association deals very exhaustively with a number of its features that are sadly out of tune with the times. But it rightly affirms that there must be no attempt to "coddle the criminal."

Of the numerous suggestions for ultimate treatment and subsequent revision this particular subject is easily the most important. One has only to compare the course which law and justice have travelled in respect of some of the more recent cases of note to realize the necessity for stiffening public attitude towards the more vicious forms of crime. The dispatch of the murderers of Sir Henry Wilson within sixty days of their hideous deed is an example of swift and unrelenting justice that ignored a political condition that might have brought pause to some more sensitive legal institution. What dangers to which society is exposed in a tendency to treat the mental condition of the murderer, rather than his act, as the prime consideration at bar are more easily imagined than described. On that account there must be no "coddling the criminal" and no abuse of the parole system through the intervention of influence of any kind.

Prison reform undoubtedly is long overdue. There is neither sense nor justice in herding the victim of a first offence with the hardened criminal. A condition of that kind, and it actually exists, is merely assuring a larger prison population as time goes on. An understanding of human psychology should also be regarded as an essential qualification in every administrative official employed in the country's corrective establishments.

But above all there must remain the fundamental threat of punishment to suit the offence. Once the Code gives way in this essential particular the laws of the land become the playthings of the corrupt. Modify the antiquated sections; let the first offender and those who come within a similar category have all the chance of reform that is possible under given conditions; but discourage any compromise with premeditated crime.

OUR HOSPITALS.

One of the most outstanding details in the report issued yesterday by the Hon. J. D. MacLean is that which indicates that practically fifty per cent. of British Columbia's recognized hospitals are operating under a serious financial deficit.

The plain statement of facts published by the Minister is another reminder to the people of this Province that the subject of public health and provision for the weak and suffering should be treated to a full dress debate at the next session of the Legislature. It does not follow by any manner of means that the hospitals of British Columbia are any worse off than similar institutions in other parts of Canada. They are not. Even with its more comprehensive system and experience in dealing with these matters Great Britain is feeling the pinch to a very considerable extent.

Conditions elsewhere do not provide any reason why we should remain indifferent to our own case. Our curative establishments should neither lack equipment nor refuse admission to a single individual on the score that his bank balance will not stand the strain of hospital charges. Every man and woman and child have the right to live in a condition of health that will preserve them as producing and potential producing assets. Many solutions have been proposed, but in most cases they have been more academic than practical. And until the people of this Province realize that if the standard of public health is to be elevated in their own interests, and more particularly in the interests of those who are ailing, they must find the money to pay for it. It is not obvious that the people who are well must be responsible for those who are ill? The obligation cannot be escaped. Why not a general hospital tax? Let the members of the Legislature take a little trouble to think about this highly important question before they come down to Victoria in the Fall. Surely they might forego an afternoon's political excursion on the P. G. E. in order to do suffering humanity a really practical turn.

WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE?

Local sympathy for Mr. Wallinger and a liberal distribution of replicas of the programme recently used at the party picnic in Vancouver are mentioned by Premier Oliver as two of the factors which helped to defeat the Government candidate in the Cranbrook riding last Tuesday.

Not even the Premier's most stalwart opponents would quarrel with this explanation. The local issue was bound to dominate all else and Mr. Wallinger's friends made the most of the opportunity which presented itself. Other considerations which may have been involved were relatively unimportant.

GOOD BUSINESS.

If any doubted the wisdom of inaugurating the Sidney-Anacortes ferry the return furnished by the Customs Department should bring a smile of satisfaction to the countenance of the most pessimistic. From June 1 to August 17 no fewer than 1,327 motor cars were carried to Sidney and 1,262 made the outward journey. These figures are not referred to as a suggestion that if the facility had not existed these cars would not have come to Vancouver Island; but it is safe to say that the new ferry service has been responsible for a greater measure of travel between this part of the Province and the neighboring State. Incidentally, the business which has developed should brighten the prospect for a service that will considerably shorten the time taken on the journey from shore to shore. Imagine what a procession there would be if the trip could be done in a little over two hours!

CANADA'S ASH HEAP.

When it is realized that Canada's annual fire loss amounts to $45,000,000 without reckoning the enormous wastage in the forests it is small wonder that the Governments of the country are beginning to ascertain some of the more common causes of this devastation. At a recent gathering of the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals careless parents, reckless children, and thoughtless smokers came in for a good deal of criticism. One speaker declared that if the average smoker were to take one-tenth of the amount of caution when he throws away a match as he employs care in the proper ignition of his tobacco a very little damage would be occasioned by this most common of causes. By this most common of causes, the theory to many equally dangerous practices and the forty-five million-dollar ash heap, not to speak of demolished timber, would be reduced to less harmful and cheaper proportions.

SHOULD HESITATE.

Because somebody has made personal representations to the Government against the establishment of a liquor store at Ocean Falls it does not follow that the authority of the Act should not be invoked. But it is to the point to suggest that if there is a majority of sentiment in support of the objector's plea the Government should hesitate before proceeding with any plans that would offend that sentiment. There should be no question of an open conflict of view in any locality. The Act is on the statute books and the Government has the right, on the instruction of a majority of the electorate of the Province, to conduct this part of the public service in conformity with its interpretation of that instruction. On no account should the store be foisted upon Ocean Falls or any other locality where there is a shadow of a doubt about popular desire or requirement. Liquid goods may be sent to all those who wish to take advantage of the Act's provisions. The law is intended to facilitate control—not to commercialize the liquor traffic.

HOW COMFORTING!

In these days of international conferences, speculation upon the date and form of the next gathering of men and women determined that human conflict on the field of battle or in the air shall cease, it is interesting to learn from such an eminent personage as Sir Oliver Lodge that these things are not the most important in life. On the other hand the great scientist seems to have turned his back completely upon those matters which have been regarded as of potential significance to practically every human being, for he declares that investigation of the after-life is the most important problem that the world faces. It must be highly gratifying to the scientific and psychic mind to be able to ignore the trials and tribulations which appear so real to nearly all the ordinary people in the world. How to get three square meals a day and prepare for old age apparently form no part of the calendar that Sir Oliver would establish. But we fear that in spite of such an eminent view quite a number of people will have to keep both feet on the ground and wrestle with many mundane problems before they can beat a retreat in search of "advance information."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Neither Charlie Chaplin nor Jack Dempsey has offered The Times the exclusive rights to publish his memoirs.

It is to be hoped that those employers of members of the Canadian Scottish who will be required to compose the guard of honor to His Excellency the Governor-General on Monday will relieve them from their duties for such time as may be necessary.

Poland is about to increase the size of her army in order to be ready for the invasion which she has discovered Russia is planning. No wonder the United States fights shy of a very intimate association with Continental Europe.

Belgium has decided to support France in the reparations deadlock. But there is no sign of anything hasty being done. Even Premier Poincaré must realize what dangers would threaten if he gave vent to what appears to be national sentiment in France.

Physicians in New Zealand have come to the conclusion that everybody would sing there would not be much chance for Bolshevism to get in its dirty work. A lot of choirmasters ought to get good jobs in Russia if they could convince the authorities at Moscow that the remedy for their miserable malady is at hand.

RAILWAY CONNECTION WITH SIOUX

To the Editor:—The Sooke Harbor Development Association has just received the following communication from the Hon. F. B. Carvell, K. C., Chief Commissioner for the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada in respect to the non-operation of the Canadian National Railway between Victoria and Sooke:

Ottawa, Aug. 9, 1922.
To W. Miller Higgs, Esq., Honorary Secretary the Sooke Harbor Development Association, Sooke, B. C.

Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of the 1st instant, I regret to say that we have nothing from the Canadian National Railway which would be of any value with respect to your application for service.

The gasoline car about which I wrote you was paired in service about six weeks ago, and has proved a great success. Another one is now under construction, as well as one for the C. P. R., and one on the D. & N. but so far as the Canadian National is concerned, it all comes back to the question of the railway's financial condition. It is not so easy to act upon the letter of the law.

However, we are again pressing this home to the management, and can only hope that some results may be produced in the near future.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) F. B. CARVELL,
Chief Commissioner.

To the people of Victoria and Sooke Harbor as well as to all those living in the intervening country places such as Colwood, Luxton and Metchem this reply from the Chief Commissioner of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada in respect to the operation of this now long completed line is not very encouraging, and certainly shows up the unfortunate condition that this line is a Government owned railroad. It is strange that permission has not been granted to the private enterprise which has some months ago applied for running rights over this road in the interests of the development of one of the most beautiful portions of Southern Vancouver Island as well as from a profitable business point of view by that firm. Chapter and more frequent facilities of transportation are alone keeping back this portion of Vancouver Island. There are those in the capital city of the Province who are ardently working up a Greater Victoria scheme whereby by the southern portion of the Island may be more closely united in the building up of a locality unsurpassed in the Pacific Northwest for beauty, climate and natural resources, and yet how difficult any effort is when millions of dollars already spent upon this Island railway are lying in idleness. If the Canadian National Railway authorities have no intention of utilizing this road for the development of the country through which it runs upon the Island, until such time as the main road across the Dominion is run upon a paying basis, then why not either give running rights to some privately owned concern or tear up the metals and utilize this road bed for one of the finest scenic automobile roads imaginable? The people of Southern Vancouver Island have as much right for consideration as those of Belleville, Ontario, and it is up to all public bodies to see that their right is not neglected. It is evident from the Chief Commissioner's letter that the gasoline car service is proving a great success from an economical point of view (probably one-quarter the cost of the steam service and it is to be hoped that the further pressure which is now being brought by the Board will have speedy results in the interests of development and progress on Southern Vancouver Island.

W. MILLER HIGGS,
Times Representative, Sooke Harbor, Aug. 17, 1922.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

To the Editor:—May I ask the City Fathers to read these lines and after reading follow the example of their brethren in Montreal and grant a boon to city mothers and children by ending daylight saving on September 1 instead of October 1? Do they not remember the rainy mornings in September both last year and the year before, when the children had to start out for school? Each morning is a little darker than the last. We need the warmth of Old Sol's time September mornings and we need the darkness of the evenings, that the children may go to their beds in good time and make up some of the hours of sleep they have lost through the summer. Justice to the children is one of first importance of the state. Then, why do we "toaster daylight saving" on them in June, when they have all the strain of the June examinations? Next year, let us have daylight saving in July and August.

Thousands of mothers will vote for the alderman who will guarantee to bring this about.

EUROPEAN WHEAT CROPS ESTIMATED

Figures Given by International Institute of Agriculture

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—A cablegram received to-day from the International Institute of Agriculture gives the following crop estimates:

The production of wheat in England and Wales is 65,052,000 bushels, against 69,774,000 last year and 62,680,000 bushels, the average of five years 1916 to 1920. Italy, 162,407,000 bushels, against 152,838,000 last year and 168,187,000 for the five-year average. Holland, 5,218,000 bushels, against 8,168,000 and 5,008,000. Sweden, 8,230,000, against 12,477,000 and 8,947,000. Switzerland, 2,448,000, against 5,284,000 and 6,629,000. The wheat crops of France and Germany are expected to be below average.

KIPLING'S BREAK.

Even clever Kipling can put his foot in it. G. H. Burgin relates how Mr. Kipling at Simla was introduced to, as he thought, a "grass widow." They called those ladies "grass widows" whose husbands were detained by work in the hot cities of the plains. Mr. Kipling remarked to her, "I suppose you can't help thinking of your poor husband—grilled down there?" The lady gave him a strange look and it was not until afterwards that he learned that she was a real widow.—Boston Transcript.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

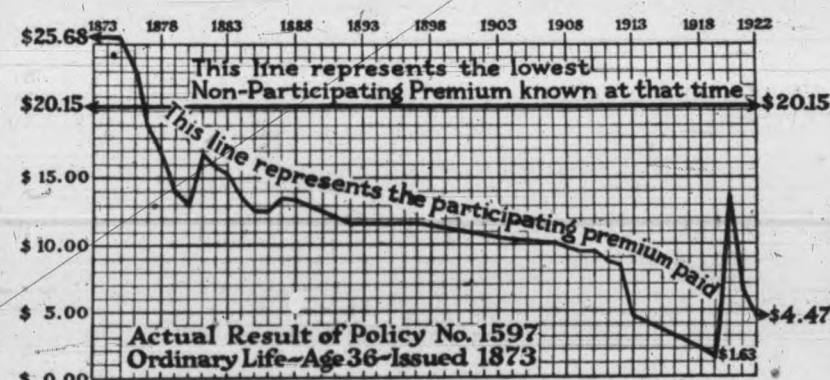

Victoria Daily Times, August 19, 1897.

A by-law for the raising of $100,000 for the purpose of the maintenance of sidewalks and roads in the city is proposed, and the borrowing of this money is included in it. The loan would be paid up in two lots of $50,000 for each year for two years which would pay the debt. As yet there is insufficient money for the building of the sidewalks.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—Sir William Van Horne has written a letter to Hon. Mr. Tarte, at the latter's request, giving his opinion why so much Canadian Northwest traffic has gone to American ports, and suggesting what should be done to hold it in Canadian channels.

Mutual Profits Pay almost Entire Premium

Here's an actual case of a $1000 policy which costs only $4.47 this year

THE extraordinary advantage which a profit-participation policy in the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada offers to its policyholders is being proved over and over again. Policyholders whose insurance was taken out in the early history of the Company know it best of all, for they have experienced steadily decreasing premiums with scarcely a check for a period of fully half a century.

Hundreds of Such Cases

As a typical example let us take profit-participating policy number 1597, in this company, as illustrated on the chart. This $1,000 policy was carried for the first two years at a premium of $25.68. Inside four years dividends reduced the premium to the same level as that paid for a like amount of the cheapest non-participating insurance known at that time.

Although some of the following years showed slight checks and reactions, the whole trend of the premium was steadily downward, until in 1919 the policy cost the insured less than $2.00! Think of it—less than $2.00 to carry one thousand dollars of life insurance for a year.

Since then the premium rose a little by reason of the flu epidemic, but this year it was only $4.47!

Saving Totalled $472.85

Meanwhile the non-participating policy issued at the same time is costing $20.15 yearly, the premium at which it started, and which will remain the same as long as the policyholder lives. The difference between the two has meant a total saving of $472.85 to date in favor of the Mutual Profit-Participating Policy.

Could a more graphic illustration of the benefits of real mutuality, as applied to Life Insurance, be asked for?

Our nearest agent can quote you many other cases similar to this and give you full information in detail. Or write the Head Office for our folder, "Insurance at Cost."

ODD FELLOWS TAKING MARINE EXCURSION

SS. Princess Adelaide Chartered for Cruise to Seattle Labor Day

The marine excursion being organized by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows to Seattle on Labor Day is attracting a great deal of attention, and is expected to prove one of the most successful of the numerous water excursions that have been held this season.

J. S. McMillan states that the tickets are selling steadily, and it is anticipated that the entire space of the SS. Princess Adelaide will be taken up by the date of the excursion.

There will be dancing and community singing on board the steamer, and a special orchestra will be carried to supply the music. Another feature will be a prize drawing contest. Numbered badges will be supplied on boarding the vessel, and the lucky winner will be awarded a useful present in the shape of half a ton of coal.

The excursion steamer will leave the Belleville Street wharf at 9 a. m., September 4, and will reach Seattle at 1:30 p. m. On the return trip the vessel will leave Seattle at 6 p. m. and be back in the city in good time for the late cars home.

ADMIRAL COMPANY'S BUSINESS DIVIDED INTO TWO GROUPS

The Admiral Line has been divided into two groups since the resignation of Melville Dollar as treasurer. It was made known here today that A. F. Halim, formerly vice-president and general manager, has been named as vice-president in charge of trade with the Orient and H. F. Alexander, president is giving his attention to the coastwise business. Hugh Gallagher, formerly assistant general manager, now is superintendent of the California business of the company.

COAST SERVICE OF GOVERNMENT MARINE WILL BE MAINTAINED

Vancouver, Aug. 18.—The C. G. M. office has received no word that would indicate the intended disposal of the coastwise vessels, but they have issued a statement that in the event of the ships being sold their places will be taken by larger vessels. There is absolutely no intention of abandoning the service, which, it is said, is one of the most satisfactory of the entire fleet. Larger vessels on the California run would mean the provision of more space for shippers. At present all vessels are loaded full, including deckloads, when they sail south from British Columbia, and more freight could be provided if the ships had the space, it is said.

INVENTOR PASSES UP

The freighter Canadian Inventor passed up to Vancouver early this morning from Portland. She discharged freight from the Orient on the Columbia River. The Canadian Inventor is posted to sail September 10 on her next trip to the Orient, her ports of call being Yokohama, Kobe and Shanghai.

SHIP FORCED TO LEAVE FREIGHT

Wairuna Will Pick Up Makura's Excess Cargo for Australia

Outbound freight booked for the liner Makura was so heavy that large shipments were left behind. It was picked up by the freighter Wairuna. The Makura arrived at the Ricketts pier here at 6 o'clock standard time this morning from Vancouver, and cleared later in the day for Auckland and Sydney via Honolulu and Sava. The Makura took out a big consignment of automobiles shipped from the Detroit works to Australian consignees. Manufactured goods of every imaginable kind were stowed away in the holds of the outbound Canadian-Australasian liner. She had over 3,000 tons aboard, and several hundred tons were left on the Nanaimo wharves to be taken care of by the Wairuna.

The Makura carries 300 passengers, there being 140 in the saloon, 100 second class and sixty third class. Company officials state that the liner Niagara, due here September 15, is bringing a full list of passengers. The freighter Wairuna, which has been loading print paper at Ocean Falls and Powell River, is expected to return to Vancouver on Monday.

Markets Open to B. C.

George V. Iverson, partner in the Overseas & Interstate Trading Co., Adelaide, South Australia, was a passenger by the Makura to-day, returning home after a business tour of the Pacific Coast, during which time he has contracted for substantial purchases of various lines of British Columbia and United States products.

Mr. Iverson says he has been in B. C. since July 6 for the purpose of establishing connections for an inter-Dominion trade. Hopes for a provincial tariff between Australia and Canada are strongly entertained by Mr. Iverson and his partner, R. Kleisner.

"If British Columbia exporters will work hand-in-hand with reputable importers in Australia," Mr. Iverson said, "their market is assured. I am strongly in favor of Australia trading with Canada rather than with the United States, prices being equal, and believe in the countries of the British Empire trading among themselves and building up their own industries."

On account of the high rate of exchange between Australia and the United States and Canada, the Commonwealth has been buying in Europe. It costs slightly more, Mr. Iverson pointed out, to ship a cargo from the United States or Canada to Australia than from Sweden and Norway, although the distance from the Scandinavian peninsula is double.

Mr. Iverson has been in the market for lumber, paper, fish and linoleum.

News from the Ocean Lines

SHIP FORCED TO LEAVE FREIGHT

Substantial parcels of lumber, to be shipped once every month or six weeks, have been assured.

Separate representatives in Australia would encourage fair competition among Canadian paper mills. Mr. Iverson pointed out that the pulp industry has a big field for the Canadian commodity. A big turn-over with smaller profits would gain more for British Columbia pulp and paper industry than smaller sales and correspondingly larger profits Sweden has been supplying Australia with paper.

United States fish being cheaper than the Canadian produce several thousand cases of salmon have been ordered from Seattle. Chum and pink salmon are in demand but with prices on the downward trend Australia is expected to buy the better grades of salmon in larger quantities.

FISH PACKERS DUE FROM BRISTOL DAY

Barques Abner Coburn and St. Paul Expected at Seattle

Seattle, Aug. 18.—Southbound from the Bristol Bay district of Alaska are seven vessels of the two largest fish packing concerns having their base in this port, according to advices to-day reaching Libby, McNeill & Libby and the ship St. Paul. The Northwest Fisheries Company, all but two units of the two fleets are on their way here, and thence, the Libby barks Abner, Coburn and the ship St. Paul, of the Northwest Fisheries Company, are expected to be southbound by Sunday. Both companies, under supervision of the United States Fish Commission, operated canneries this season at about four-fifths capacity at Nushagak, Naknek, Koguk, Egegik and Ikuk.

George A. Heyburn, hitherto agent for the Pacific Steamship Company at Shanghai and an overseas agent, has been named to succeed John J. Gorman as Oriental manager for the Admiral Line. Gorman recently resigned from the Admiral Line to become Northwest manager for the Yamashita Company.

Major Heyburn will keep his headquarters at Shanghai and will report from there to Mr. Haynes. The new Oriental manager is a former member of Dowdell & Co. here, and was with the Admiral Line when equal and joined the allies in the world war. Heyburn resigned and was given a commission as captain in the engineer corps, going to France early in 1918.

In command of Captain F. Simon, the big freighter, Siam, of the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique, arrived to-day and is discharging 200 tons of cargo including several hundred bags of Central America coffee.

JAPAN STILL UNSOLD.

Vancouver, Aug. 19.—Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, officials here know that the Empress of Japan, six weeks ago British papers contained items that the ship had been purchased as a private yacht, by some unnamed Indian Prince. Now the same report is in the well-known British shipping publication, Syren and Shipping. Also it appears in The Times of India illustrated weekly of June 28. The C. P. S. has no such still declare they know of no such deal, and put forward the opinion that someone has picked up the old story of the Empress of India and brought it up to date.

BEATRICE FLOATED.

The steamer Princess Beatrice was floated from the wharves at Yarrow this morning after effecting repairs. NEWS IN BRIEF

To Hold Special Meeting.—A special general meeting of the G.W.V.A. will take place on Tuesday evening next for the election of officers at the G.W.V.A. club rooms.

In Esquimalt Court.—J. T. Redding, George Sheriff, A. Terry, J. Dierment and B. A. Clark were each fined $5 in the Esquimalt Police Court yesterday afternoon for failure to have the necessary rear light on their respective motor vehicles.

Pythians Visit.—Fifteen Pythian delegates to the convention just held in San Francisco arrived in the city yesterday, and were greeted by the West Victoria Lodge, No. 1. The visitors were entertained to luncheon at the Dominion Hotel, and to a drive around the city. The party will stop at Banff en route to their homes in the East.

Thanks to Ladies.—Special thanks is extended to the ladies committee of the Women's Institute, whose generous work availed despite serious handicap, in the arrangements for tea at the Esquimalt picnic. The following members comprise the committee who were in charge of the arrangements: Mrs. Bloor, Mrs. F. Bickerts, Mrs. Cave, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Scott, and Mrs. Hollinger.

Found Drowned.—A verdict of "found drowned" was returned by the jury at the inquest on the late Yeichi Aoyagi, the thirteen-year-old Japanese boy who lost his life while fishing on August 1 beneath Pier 2 at the Outer Wharf, which was held yesterday afternoon at the Sands Funeral Parlor. The inquest was conducted by Dr. Edward C. Hart, coroner.

Dr. Hadwen's Visit.—Arrangements are being completed for the proposed visit of Dr. Walter Hadwen, president of the British Union for Abolition of Vivisection, who has consented to include certain Canadian cities in his American tour. Dr. Hadwen will speak at public meetings to be held in Victoria and Vancouver early in October, and his lectures will prove of great interest not only to the medical profession but to all social workers and to the community generally.

May Wear Uniform.—District orders by Brigadier-General J. M. Ross, C.M.G., D.S.O., colonel commandant for Military District No. 11, contain the information that members of the active militia and ex-members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force (all ranks) attending the garden party to be held at Government House on Wednesday next may wear uniform if they so desire. This permission also applies to those attending the memorial service and unveiling of the tablet and cross of sacrifice at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

To Aid Hospital.—Queen City Chapter, No. 5, O. E. S., will hold a birthday tea on Wednesday, August 23, at the home of the Misses Herd, 1403 Harrison Street. Tea will be served from 3 to 6. There will be a sale of work, a programme, cup reading, and other attractions. The full proceeds will be devoted towards furnishing a room in Jubilee Hospital. A cordial invitation is extended to all members of the "Eastern Star," also friends who are in sympathy with this good work.

Motor Jumps Curb.—Mistaking the accelerator for a brake, it is presumed, a motor car jumped the sidewalk at 6 p.m. last night, dodged several pedestrians by a hair's breadth and crashed into the window of Scurrah's, Ltd., 725 Yates Street. The car, owned by Mrs. Harvey, of Hampshire Road, was being driven by her nephew. The accident was inadvertent and attended without damage except to the plate glass window. The driver, who had expected to come to a stop at the curb, was nonplussed by the strange antics of the car.

Further List of Winners.—Since the last announcement, the students of Victoria High School named below (including every one who competed) have been reported successful in winning the Full Theory Certificate from Sir Isaac Pitman & Sons, Toronto: Ellen Cannon, James McConnell, Calico Horspool, Mary Hamilton, Mildred Kelly, Ruth Kipling, Agnes Fraser, Kathleen Fisher, Elizabeth McLennan, Mabel Stephen, Ella Chaffee, Violet Overnden (first year), William Pythian (first year), Annie Baron, Arthur Barrie, Eric Day, Gwendolyn Maynard, Fred Archer, Violet Brown.

Girl Guides.—The Girl Guides, who have been at Sooke for the last two weeks, broke camp on Thursday afternoon and returned to Victoria. The girls had a very successful and enjoyable outing throughout the whole camping period and the girls are returning home with a wealth of experience. The camp was held under the supervision of Captain Mrs. Godman, with Miss Cotton, the camp commandant, the girls have carried out a splendid programme which included games, tracking in the woods and other guide lore in addition to the daily routine, without a single case of illness or mishap during the whole of the two weeks. The camp was situated on Phillips' flats and proved such an ideal site that the Guides hope to be given the privilege some future date.

Queen Alexandra Review.—The second August meeting of the Review was held in the K. of P. Hall on Thursday evening. The programme was a most successful one, and the reports of the silver tea, rummage sale and picnic were brought in, all of which were satisfactory, and each committee was thanked. Special thanks were tendered to Miss Reid for the splendid way in which she conducted the competition, which brought the receipts of the silver teas to such gratifying results. It was decided to hold a social for members and friends on the second meeting night in September. Four of the members, Miss Anderson, Miss Bell, Miss Wilkinson and Miss Laing, are leaving the city at the end of this month. It was decided to hold a farewell tea on Tuesday evening, August 29, at the home of Mrs. Laing, 1419 Stanley Avenue, and it is hoped that all members will make an effort to attend. There was one initiation, but as the business of the evening was quickly disposed of, a pleasant time was spent singing some of the Marathon songs, after which the new lady-at-arms was installed, which ceremony was followed by the regular closing of lodge.

A "WRANGLER."
A clergyman of a country parish had a great and deserved fame for learning. His career at Cambridge had been brilliant, but he had settled down to a useful rural life. A stranger who knew of the clergyman's reputation lately wandered into the village. "Your vicar is a very able man," said he to a parishioner. "Oh," "I never heard of that," was the rustic's reply. "But the missus is!"

Kumtiks Club Picnic.—The Kumtiks Club will hold an evening picnic and meeting on Monday, August 22, at the home of the Misses Herd, 1403 Harrison Street. Members should bring their own supper and should make the journey by bus from the Kettle Inn, leaving at 5:30, 6 or 6:30.

Lodge Plans Social.—The social committee of Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 1, I. O. O. F., under the co-sponsorship of Miss A. Brown, announce a very interesting programme for next Tuesday evening, August 22. It will take the form of a "get together" social, and those attending are requested to represent flowers. Several other contests have been arranged, and the programme will be brought to a close with a community sing and refreshments. A cordial invitation is extended to all members of Colfax Lodge and their friends.

Guide Camp a Success.—Yesterday the Girl Guides Camp at Sooke broke up after a most successful fortnight, with only one wet day to mar the proceedings. Under the able supervision of Miss Cotton, the camp commandant, the girls have carried out a splendid programme which included games, tracking in the woods and other guide lore in addition to the daily routine, without a single case of illness or mishap during the whole of the two weeks. The camp was situated on Phillips' flats and proved such an ideal site that the Guides hope to be given the privilege some future date.

Queen Alexandra Review.—The second August meeting of the Review was held in the K. of P. Hall on Thursday evening. The programme was a most successful one, and the reports of the silver tea, rummage sale and picnic were brought in, all of which were satisfactory, and each committee was thanked. Special thanks were tendered to Miss Reid for the splendid way in which she conducted the competition, which brought the receipts of the silver teas to such gratifying results. It was decided to hold a social for members and friends on the second meeting night in September. Four of the members, Miss Anderson, Miss Bell, Miss Wilkinson and Miss Laing, are leaving the city at the end of this month. It was decided to hold a farewell tea on Tuesday evening, August 29, at the home of Mrs. Laing, 1419 Stanley Avenue, and it is hoped that all members will make an effort to attend. There was one initiation, but as the business of the evening was quickly disposed of, a pleasant time was spent singing some of the Marathon songs, after which the new lady-at-arms was installed, which ceremony was followed by the regular closing of lodge.

A "WRANGLER."
A clergyman of a country parish had a great and deserved fame for learning. His career at Cambridge had been brilliant, but he had settled down to a useful rural life. A stranger who knew of the clergyman's reputation lately wandered into the village. "Your vicar is a very able man," said he to a parishioner. "Oh," "I never heard of that," was the rustic's reply. "But the missus is!"

BIG LOTTERIES CLOSED, POLICE BOARD ASSURED

But Smaller Establishments Said to Be Active Here Now

Mayor Stirred Over Reported Gambling Outbreak in Chinatown

All the large, well-known Chinese lotteries here are closed now, the City Police Commission learned today, following reports received early this week that lottery gambling was rampant in Chinatown again. Small lotteries, operated in secret places, may still be active, it was admitted, however.

The present conditions in Chinatown, as reported to the Police Commission, were made known to-day after Mayor Marchant had taken the whole question under advisement. The Mayor was stirred by reports received earlier in the week that the lotteries had opened up again.

"We have been through Chinatown and the police have the gambling situation well in hand," Police Commissioner W. E. Stanland declared to-day. "All the big lotteries which are well known to the police and to many of the public are closed now. There has been no activity in them for a long time. The police, I may say, are doing excellent work in this connection."

Difficult to Curb Lotteries.
"It may be true, however, that small, less known lotteries are operating in some parts of Chinatown. This is quite possible for it is difficult to stop a small lottery operating behind a shop as it is to stop a man buying a drink in a private kitchen. It is next to impossible to prevent this sort of thing."

Mayor Stirred.
The Mayor made it clear to-day that he was deeply interested in the reported outbreak of lottery gambling in Chinatown and that, if such an outbreak had occurred, he would do everything in his power to stop it. The Mayor said that he had not had time since his return from the country yesterday to go into the matter very fully. He added that he would confer with members of the Police Commission on the subject to-day or Monday.

WEDDING WILL END CITY HALL ROMANCE

Staff Presents Dinner Set to Couple Who Met in Office Hours

The prettiest romance in the history of the City Hall—and the old building, for all its dust and business, has had its share of romance—will be completed next Thursday with the wedding of William Wright, of the B. C. Land & Survey Agency, and Miss Mary Morton, City Engineer F. M. Preston's popular secretary. Mr. Wright and Miss Morton first met when he was in the City Treasury Department and next Tuesday's wedding will be the outcome of their association during the round of office work.

To-day members of the City Hall staff united in presenting Miss Morton with a beautiful Limoges dinner set which was tastefully set out on a large table in the City Hall committee room. An address expressing the staff's congratulations to the happy couple, was read.

Miss Morton relinquished her duties in Mr. Preston's office to-day.

ARRANGE CABARET FOR MUIR BENEFIT

Attractive Function at Westholme to Aid Popular Young Athlete

With the commendable object of providing further funds for the assistance of "Billy" Muir, the popular young athlete, who was seriously injured in a diving exhibition recently, the swimming clubs of the city are arranging to hold a benefit cabaret on Saturday evening next. The affair is to be held in the Westholme cabaret from 9 till 12, and as this popular rendezvous has recently been enlarged and altered to accommodate between three and four hundred patrons, a big crowd is anticipated.

Mrs. Curry and Miss Edna Curry are in charge of the arrangements, and they have enlisted the sympathetic services of Miss Roberta Balcom, the well-known solo dancer, and Madame Valda, whose clever little pupils will present a series of pastoral dances. Other well-known talent is also being secured.

A nominal admission fee will be charged, every cent of which will be used for the relief fund for Mr. Muir. In addition the management of the Westholme cabaret has generously offered to donate to the beneficiary fund a percentage of the evening's takings for refreshments. As the cause is such a popular one, and there is likely to be a big demand for tables, reservations should be made as soon as possible.

SAVES MONEY ON SUBSTRUCTURE

Engineer Gives Useful Information on Bridge Cost

Striking figures were presented to the Public Utilities Committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon by City Engineer Preston to show that the cost of the substructure of the Johnson Street bridge has been kept within $18,000 of the estimated cost, and nearly $30,000 saved by the city in carrying on the work directly through the engineering department.

The actual cost for the substructure, the counterweight trunnion pier, the main trunnion pier, the rest pier and the west abutment represented an outlay of $207,836, as compared with the estimate of $187,822. This figure further compares with an aggregate of $234,265.50 of the five lowest tenders on the five sections enumerated above, or $249,133 average contract price.

Allowing for extra cement used, the actual figures are: Engineer's

Cricket Week Will Open On Monday

Four Local Teams and Two Outside Clubs Will Compete For Championship; Three Matches Will Be Played Each Day; Incogs and Vancouver Oils Are Considered Most Dangerous Eleven But There May Be Surprise Package

"Cricket Week" will open on Monday morning with three matches. Six clubs have entered for the Pacific Coast championship, and matches will be played throughout the week. Only two outside teams will be here this year, Nanaimo having been unable to field a side. The Vancouver Oils and Cowichan will be the visitors, while the local representatives will be the Incogs, Victoria, Albion Wanderers and Veterans of France.

Cricket Week always attracts much interest, being staged here by the Victoria and District Cricket Association annually for the purpose of determining the championship club. Last year the Wanderers captured the honors and hope to repeat this year.

Vancouver had hoped to send across two teams but found it impossible. A number of extra players are coming over, however, and will be available for play should some of the clubs find difficulty in fielding their full side any day. The Incogs, providing they can turn out their strongest eleven for the ten days, are favored to win the title. Vancouver Oils, however, have always been formidable opponents and are expected to prove dangerous again this year.

Plan Entertainment. A splendid programme of entertainment has been arranged for the visitors. On Monday evening a get-together affair will be staged at the Veterans of France following a motor drive around the city. On Wednesday there will be a party to the playhouse and on Friday a banquet, smoke and concert will be held. The grounds to be used during the tournament will be Mt. Tolmie, Jubilee and Oak Bay. Arrangements are being made for catering to the spectators. Percy Payne will have charge of supplying lunch at the Jubilee.

The Schedule. Monday, August 21—Victoria vs. Cowichan, at Jubilee Hospital; Oils vs. Albion Wanderers, at University School; Incogs vs. Veterans of France, at Oak Bay. Tuesday, August 22—Victoria vs. Albion Wanderers, at Jubilee Hospital; Incogs vs. Cowichan, at University School; Oils vs. Veterans of France, at Oak Bay. Wednesday, August 23—Cowichan vs. Oils, at Jubilee Hospital; Victoria vs. Incogs, at University School; Albion Wanderers vs. Veterans of France, at Oak Bay. Thursday, August 24—Albion Wanderers vs. Incogs, at Jubilee Hospital; Cowichan vs. Veterans of France, at University School; Victoria vs. Oils, at Oak Bay. Friday, August 25—Victoria vs. Veterans of France, at Jubilee Hospital; Incogs vs. Albion Wanderers, at University School; Albion Wanderers vs. Cowichan, at Oak Bay. AUSTRALIANS NEED ONE MATCH TO WIN

Spaniards Must Win Two to Survive Final Round of Davis Cup

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—Victory in either of the two remaining international tennis matches in which the Australian Davis Cup team to-day faced the team from Spain, meant that the players from the Antipodes will meet the representatives of the United States in the challenge round for the famous trophy at Forest Hills, N. Y., on September 1, 2 and 4. Two wins for the Spaniards, however, would carry them into the contest with the United States players. Today Pat O'Hara Wood, of Australia, meets Count Manuel de Gomar, of Spain, while Gerald Patterson faces Manuel Alonso.

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—On the courts of the Germantown Cricket Club yesterday afternoon Gerald L. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood defeated Manuel Alonso and Count de Gomar, the Spanish representatives, in the doubles match in straight sets by scores of 6-2, 6-2, 6-4. While the play was closer than the score would appear to indicate, the Australians dominated the contest, and seldom failed to come through with the winning stroke when a point was actually necessary. Both Alonso and de Gomar were fast footed and with racket, but even when close to the net, they hit overhead shots that were repeatedly hurled back by the other side. The Spaniards in the end, when they hit the ball it was for "keeps" as a spectator expressed it.

The stroke analysis of the three sets shows there was but little difference in the errors of the two teams, but that in earned points the Australians more than doubled the place of the Spaniards. Patterson and O'Hara Wood had almost as many nets as Alonso and de Gomar, and exceeded the Spaniards in error, when they hit the ball it was for "keeps" as a spectator expressed it.

Kent beat Nottingham by an innings and 49 runs. Hampshire beat Worcester by eight wickets. Sussex beat Lancashire by nine wickets. Essex beat Somerset by five wickets. Gloucester beat Glamorgan by nine wickets. Yorkshire beat Middlesex on the first innings.

Seventy-Seven Women Athletes Compete In The Paris Olympiad

Paris, Aug. 19.—Seventy-seven women athletes representing five countries will compete in what is generally described as "the first women's Olympics" at Pershing Stadium to-morrow. The Swiss and Czechoslovakia teams arrived here yesterday and word was received that the English team had left London. The Belgian team defaulted, it was announced.

The United States and Panama have entered a team of 15; England, 13; Czechoslovakia, 10; Switzerland, 7 and France, 32. Not a single French entry will be called upon to compete in more than one event and there are two girls available as substitutes, while the English, Swiss, Czechoslovakia and American girls are entered in one, two, three and in some cases four events. The fight of the whole is expected to be between England, France, and the United States, with the Czechoslovakians close contenders.

The advance sale of tickets for the meet indicates there is more interest in it than any athletic meet held in France recently. Miss Rathbone, of the American team, will be unable to compete, owing to the injury to her ankle.

Hollocher Has Cubs Show Great Form

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Charlie Hollocher, captain of the Chicago Cubs, has struck a batting stride which swung his team mates in line with the hustling little shortstop and as a result the club, picked by a majority of experts to finish far down in the second division, is up in third place and battling the leaders, according to the averages released to-day. The club is third in the pennant race and third in batting. Pittsburgh is leading in team batting with .409 and New York is second with .398. Chicago's mark is .396.

In fielding Chicago is out in front with an average of .971 with New York at .969. Hollocher, by his consistent hitting has boosted himself up to fourth place with an average of .358 compared with .345 a week ago. Roger Hornsby, the St. Louis star, continues to top the players who have participated in 50 or more games, with an average of .374, and is leading the home-run hitters with .29. He also continues out in front in total bases with 238, the result of 164 hits, which besides his home runs includes thirty-one doubles and eight triples.

Bibbee Is Runner-Up. Bibbee, of Pittsburgh, is the runner-up to Hornsby for batting honors with .363 and Grimes, of Chicago, is next with .361. Carey, who is far in front of the base-stealers with 45 thefts, also is the best run-getter with a total of 102 runs to his credit. Other leading batters include:

Other leading batters for 50 or more games include: Bassler, Detroit, .348; Tobin, St. Louis, .339; Heinman, Detroit, .335; Williams, St. Louis, .333; Ed Miller, Philadelphia, .332; O'Neill, Cleveland, .330; Gallo-way, Philadelphia, .325; Blue, Detroit, .325.

COLWOOD GOLF CLUB RECIPIENT OF GIFT

Handsome Pictorial Reminder of P. N. W. Tournament Presented to Club

Colwood Golf and Country Club is the fortunate recipient of a large composite photograph depicting a number of interesting incidents which marked the successful tournament held at the club's links under the auspices of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association in June last.

In making the gift to the club The Pacific Golf and Motor—one of the best known sporting journals on the Pacific Coast—reiterates its formal congratulations to President Sayward and his colleagues on the directorate on the magnificent manhole in which the tournament details were so successfully prosecuted from start to finish.

The photograph very naturally includes a number of characteristic poses of the present champion, whose amateur status has now been challenged by the United States Golf Association. One happy incident is that of the actual presentation of the emblem of the Amateur Championship of the Pacific Northwest by Mr. Sayward to George von Elm. Mrs. Hutchings, the women champion, who went through all the rounds of her ordeal with such consummate skill and consistency, is also shown on various parts of the links. Similarly Mrs. Sweeney, Miss Anderson and Mrs. Crane are included in this interesting pictorial record of the event. Nor did the cameraman overlook the captain-caddy of the semi-final day; for Jack Rithier appears with Forrest Watson's clubs slung over his shoulder. His positive refusal of the four bits per round preserved his amateur status, however.

Appreciate Gift. Needless to observe, the President and officers of the Colwood Club are highly appreciative of the magnificent gift, and when the new clubhouse opens its doors a few days hence this handsome and interesting reminder of one of the most successful tournaments ever staged on the Pacific coast will occupy a place of honor on its spiculous walls.

Sarazen Crowned King of Golfers

Defeated Emmett French In Thrilling Battle For U. S. Pro. Title and Will Now Go to England Next Year to Try to Win British Open Title; Accorded Great Reception After His Victory Yesterday; Match Nip and Tuck All Way

Pittsburg, Aug. 19.—Gene Sarazen, the 21-year-old pro from the Highland Golf Club, of Pittsburg, demonstrated yesterday that he is the king of the United States golfing circle. He won the national professional tournament from Emmett French, the veteran from Youngstown, by 3 and 3 after one of the most gruelling and thrilling matches ever seen in the East. It was nip and tuck right up to the twenty-seventh hole, with first one leading and then the other. Gene displayed no nerves at all and won because he refused to crack under the tremendous strain.

Sarazen now holds two American titles, the open and national professional. He won them both within a month and in doing so defeated the greatest star in the States. He twice met Jack Hutchison, the doughty Scot, and both times he was victorious. In disposing of French yesterday, Sarazen is entitled to be considered America's greatest golfer.

Only four years ago Sarazen was a caddy at Rye, N. Y., and some say he used to dream of some day being champion. The approach of that day has been a long one, but he has realized it.

A Great Chance. The black-haired boy—hardly known to the golf world until this summer—will have an opportunity to perform a feat never accomplished in the history of the sport. He will go to England, holding two American titles, and hopeful of capturing a third crown.

The forenoon round was started slowly and carefully. Sarazen took the lead on the second hole as French missed a birdie putt. The consequence of a wonderful approach and he held the margin until the seventh where French sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie three. French made another fine putt on the eighth and went into the lead, but a freak shot lost him the advantage on the next hole. French's drive whistled over the hill and whanged against the pin. He flashed back off the green and French had no difficulty holding his fourth. The match remained even, and the twelfth was won by French. French went ahead again on the sixteenth, but Sarazen caught him at the seventeenth, and the forenoon round finished in a tie.

Won on Twenty-Seventh. It was much the same way for a while in the afternoon. French got a birdie four on the ninth and French overbore the green and Sarazen took the lead until he found a trap again on the twelfth, which French took one stroke under par. Gene won the twenty-fourth when French hit a trap but Sarazen had the ball back on the green and the match was a tie. It remained so until the twenty-seventh—a hoodoo for French—was played. A trap proved deadly for the Youngstown golfer, and Sarazen won the match, for Sarazen stayed ahead the rest of the way.

Gene outplayed French so completely thereafter that he was four strokes ahead of French on the thirty-second hole. French, usually a deadly putter, simply couldn't find the cup. Sarazen tried to level the match on the thirty-second green but he missed his putt for a three and the hole was halved.

The Girls Were There. Both put their second shots over the green, but their third shots were dropped with three feet of the final hole. French looked at the cup, the sky—and Gene. He advanced three steps and doffed his hat to the youth. Then the usual aftermath followed. Gene that he was the greatest player on earth and that they "just knew" he would win.

The medal cards were the poorest that either player turned in during the tournament. In previous matches each beat par—37 out and 37 in—on several occasions and each shot the course on one occasion in 69. In the forenoon Gene went out in 35 and French took 39. They came back in 36 and 37 respectively. Trap trouble ruined their afternoon cards. Sarazen's first nine totalled 41, while French had 40.

Had Something in Reserve. Sarazen won chiefly because he had something in reserve. In the play much the same sort of a game until the break came. At times Sarazen's approach shots were a bit over the hole, but he made up for his thorough knowledge of the course. Sarazen's next big match will probably be with Walter Hagen, of Detroit, in the British open championship. Gene does not expect to compete in the Western open championship at Detroit.

CAPABLANCA WINS

London, Aug. 19.—Jose R. Capablanca, the world's chess champion, defeated Norman Seagram's touring Canadian cricketers at Lord's yesterday when the Canadians were all out for 175. This brings Capablanca's total to 15 po.

BREAKS ARM WHILE PITCHING IN GAME

Sid Sherratt Fractured Right Arm Last Night in Independent League

Sid Sherratt is the latest athlete to be visited by the hard luck jinx which seems to be camping on the trail of local sportmen this season. While pitching for the Odd Fellows last evening against the C. P. R. in the Independent Baseball League, Sid had the misfortune to break his right arm just above the elbow. The injured player was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by Bob Peden. An X-ray picture revealed a complete break, shattering three bones.

Sid had been twirling nice ball for the Odd Fellows and was relieved by Talbot, who had been playing in the outfield. The C. P. R. won the game by 7-2. The railroaders made sure of the game in the fifth inning when Talbot became wild, walking four men and yielding three hits.

The C. P. R. advanced into the semi-finals for the Rithet Cup with the Native Sons. Two more rounds remain to be played. The Gyro meeting the Colored Giants on Tuesday evening.

BISHOP BRENT TO BE HERE SOON

Distinguished Author Lecturer to Speak on British-American Relationships

Typical tribute to Bishop Brent, who is announced to preach in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday morning, August 27, and to speak at a garden party in Bishop's Close on Monday afternoon, August 28, is seen in the following references to the present Bishop of Western New York made by the Bishop of London, Dr. W. H. Inge, in a letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, dated August 15, 1922.

"It was by what the world would call luck, but by what I feel to be Divine Providence, that I was asked to fix upon a writer for our Lenten book for 1918 on April 20, 1917. I was driving the author of this inspiring book, if I remember right, down to the great service which we held in St. Paul's Cathedral to commemorate the greatest event which has happened for 100 years—the entrance of the United States into the Great War for the freedom of the world—a service at which Bishop Brent himself preached a striking sermon.

"But for this I should not, I think, have had the presumption to ask so busy a man, and one so well known throughout the world, to write our Lenten book.

"It is the work of a man who has lived out what he has written in his own life first."

Canada's Tribute.

Bishop Brent preached at the opening service of last year's General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, held in Christ Church Cathedral, Hamilton, on October 5, 1921. In the Canadian Primates' address, delivered on the same day, Archbishop Matheson said:

"I am sure that the Synod would like me to express on its behalf our gratitude to the Bishop of Western New York for preaching the opening sermon. From our knowledge of his powers we expected much in a sermon from him, but this morning, may I say that we got more than even we expected. Admirable in the highest degree, his message to-day was most fitting and just what the crises of the times in which we live call for. Dr. Brent is one of Canada's own sons and one who, wherever he goes, and whatever position he fills, sheds lustre by his conspicuous ability on the land of his birth."

Besides preaching at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday, August 27, in Christ Church Cathedral, and at the 7.30 p. m. service in St. John's Church on Monday afternoon, August 28, Bishop Brent will speak on "British-American Relationships" at a garden party to be held in the grounds of Bishop's Close, 346 Vancouver Street, the present residence of the Bishop of Columbia.

Archdeacon Perry at St. John's.—The Ven. Archdeacon Perry of the Diocese of Niagara, who has been taking the services at Christ Church, Vancouver, is to preach at St. John's Church, Quadra Street, on Sunday at both the services. Archdeacon Perry is a cousin of Alderman R. W. Perry of this city, whose guest he will be during his stay in Victoria.

The Rev. J. A. MacLean, of St. John's Church, Pittsburgh, in Presbytery of Kingston was honored with the degree of D.D. by the University of Nebraska at their sixty-sixth commencement.

CHURCH CONFERENCE PLANS PROGRESS

Bishop of Columbia Will Attend
Sessions in Seattle

While a number of churchmen and older boys in Victoria have expressed their intention of attending the international conference of Anglicans and Episcopalians to be held in Seattle from August 30 to September 3. It is hoped that still more will make arrangements to go in the next few days. The Bishop of Columbia, Right Rev. C. D. Scheldt, is among those who are planning to attend. Several clergymen from the diocese are also going. One party of men and older boys from Victoria have arranged to leave on the afternoon boat to Seattle on Tuesday, August 29. Prominent clergymen, laymen and boys leaders in the United States and Western Canada, to the number of 1,500 will be present.

The convention programme provides for sectional conferences on vital subjects each morning, general and group conferences, with recreation periods during the afternoon and public meetings at night. On Sunday morning, September 3, a corporate communion service for all men and boys attending the conference will be held in St. Mark's Church, Seattle, and in the afternoon a public mass meeting will be addressed by speakers from London, England, and New York on the subject of "The Spiritual Contributions of the English-Speaking Peoples Must Yet make to the Civilization of the World."

Seattle churchmen have made very satisfactory arrangements for the accommodation and entertainment of all visiting delegates. It is estimated that the entire cost for each delegate for six days, including transportation and board, need not exceed $25. Accommodation for men is being provided in the fraternity houses and other homes near the convention headquarters at the University of Washington buildings. Boys will be looked after in dormitory halls in the university and nearby buildings. In addition to the entertainment of all delegates at Seattle and Tacoma, including a boat trip to the latter port, special plans are announced for the entertainment of visiting ladies and wives of delegates.

Further particulars of the conference may be obtained from Anglican clergymen in the diocese or from the chairman for registration in the Victoria district, A. R. Merrix, 912 Burdett Avenue, or telephone 5329Y.

THOUSANDS INCREASE METHODIST CHURCH

Quadrennial Report Indicates
Increase of 68,000 in Membership

Methodist General Conference
Will Be Held Shortly

In the report to be presented by the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Church in Canada, a general survey of conditions as to membership in the churches, evangelistic activity and social service activities is given.

A total membership of upwards of 450,000 is reported, showing an increase for the past four years of 68,000 members.

Reports received by the conference indicate that the gains of the past four years, after deducting deaths, removals, etc., will be an increase of about 19 per cent.

The Methodist General Conference to be held for two weeks, commencing September 15, will receive a most interesting record of notable evangelistic activity and successful movements along every line of social service.

"Methodism," says the report, "born in a revival has always been an active evangelistic force in the religious world. It is realized that the great central task of the church is to give their lives into the service of God and to influence the community and the nation to accept the principles of the Gospel of Christ in her laws, in her industries, her commerce, her amusements and every relation of life."

The Department of Evangelism and Social Service has, throughout the quadrennial, emphasized the promotion of the evangelistic spirit throughout the church, urging every minister to be his own evangelist, co-operating with the officials and members in their evangelistic responsibility to the community, and emphasizing the importance of every church member being a personal worker.

Speaking of the social service activities of the church, the report says: "Institutions have been established for the care and training of children—the orphan and the child of the slum; for the reclamation and redemption of the girl gone wrong; for the Canadianization of the immigrant and for aiding the many varied juvenile courts.

Such institutions as the Earlscourt Children's Home, Maritime Home for Girls, Truro; Bethany House, Montreal; Social Service, Winnipeg; Riverside Settlement, Calgary; Turner Institute, Vancouver, and MacLean-Malpasse, Memorial, Toronto, Ontario, are rendering valuable service to their own countrymen and Canada in this respect.

"In seeking the improvement of the law affecting morals, it excludes, there is the very heartiest co-operation with other bodies, but the duty of keeping the Methodist people informed and ready for progressive action, depends upon the Department of Evangelism. The present situation regarding prohibition, child welfare, and the movement for the better protection of women and girls and many other matters, have been largely achieved through these means.

Rev. Wm. Rochester, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, spoke as follows: "With respect to the Sunday opening of moving picture shows, there can be but one opinion among those who desire to maintain our weekly rest day. The business of amusement must be excluded from Sunday as well as other business which is without justification or necessity or mercy. Business it not to be excluded from Sunday because it is bad, but because it is business. Then, too, the element of competition must be considered. We ought to leave the church, the Sunday school at home free from undue distraction on the one day set apart for that purpose to minister in higher things to individual and national well-being. Competition is not eliminated by a change of the hour. The competition lies not in the time, but in the nature of the diversion.

Then, as to games, several considerations must be kept in mind. First, the Chinese aspect, which has been mentioned above; second, evolution. Allowing one thing means a like consideration for something else. Sunday golf, even in certain sections of Canada, has brought in all other games to which other classes are as logically entitled, and thus the day is robbed of its quiet and defeated in its purpose. Third, propriety. No Sunday law is a guide to Sabbath observance. This must be lifted to a higher plane than law requires. Just as there is proper deportment and decorum in a church building as compared with any other place, so there are proprieties of the Sabbath. Sunday games, in my opinion, violate these. It is not a question of wrong, but a question of propriety."

Community Play. Father Minehan approved very highly of allowing restricted play in the parks. "Community play and singing are good things for the people," he said, "healthful amusement, so long as it does not interfere with religious devotion or promote the commercial spirit, is what the people need."

J. W. Hopkins, general secretary for the Y. M. C. A., said he had not given much thought to the matter, but he "did not think the opening of Toronto parks on Sunday at all necessary." He is strongly opposed to anything that would "interfere with the proper observance of the Sabbath day."

DR. MOTT BACK FROM ORIENT

Finds Spirit of New Thought
Is Surging in China

What is the character, extent and significance of that present movement in China which news dispatches have for some months been describing as a "new thought" movement directed against Christianity and against western ideas and influences?

Dr. Mott's fifth journey in the Far East, not counting the one which took him as member of the Root Commission to examine Siberia. He regards this last as the most timely and in possibilities the most fruitful, basing his feeling in part on the present movement in China, the "new thought" movement in China, the term used not as applied in America to a cult, but as indicating an intellectual manifestation.

The spirit of new thought, Dr. Mott points out, is surging in the brains of professors and students in China. There is a writer of conflicting ideas and ideals occupying them; a spirit of inquiry, a desire to re-evaluate everything. There is no sacred or inviolable, no practice past or present, which is too sacred or binding for them to question or discard. They cannot prove its value, its social efficiency, its intensity and possibilities there has been nothing comparable to this movement, in Dr. Mott's opinion, since the Renaissance in Europe, which is transcended by the other in the number of people involved and in the variety of interests engaged. It is a mental awakening, hunger, courage and serious purpose it is, he says, the most interesting and quickening development he has ever observed.

Any Method to Get Truth. Dr. Mott, on his visit to China in 1916, found the so-called scholars impatient and unwilling to hear or discuss. Now there is not only an active spirit of inquiry, but a determination to use any method to get at truth. There is a social passion as well as an intellectual hunger in this awakening. It makes possible almost anything from the point of view of a cause which knows its purpose and goal, and is sure of its message. The situation presents a colossal problem to Christian mission and to the Chinese church, but also presents the greatest opportunity these are likely to have in our day.

On his recent visit, Dr. Mott found avenues being readily opened up for Christian representatives to meet the people, and to discuss individually. The government provided great halls for the conference; in some cases special pavilions were erected. The president of China, in a letter to Dr. Mott, who stated that within a few minutes they were in close discussion over the very heart of the Christian gospel. The ex-president was equally responsive. Opportunities for meeting with military governors and cabinet members were frequent, and at no time was Dr. Mott's presence less welcome than in the Christian re-union.

Dr. Mott found the same welcome in Japan, both in public and private. He was invited to an audience with the Emperor—the first Christian layman thus honored—and also had a personal meeting with the Prince Regent. He found both interested in discussing Christian principles.

"Anti-Christian Movement." Summer Tourists Delighted With Scenic Bargain Counter Round Victoria; Atlantic Greet Pacific

"If you people on this island want to see the Pacific Coast, its wonderful green, its native colors, its air, its scenic marvels—all these combine to make it a veritable magnet in its attractiveness. We came here intending to stay two days and we have been here already two weeks. I do not know when we shall go away."

In these words Reverend David Perry, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Davenport, Washington, opened conversation after an introduction to a representative of The Times at the Curtis Point Automobile Camp last week. Mr. Perry, accompanied by Mrs. Perry and their three children and in the same party is Mr. Fred Campbell, an official of the church, with his family.

"Are you speaking now as a seasoned auto tourist? Mr. Perry, or are these words the outburst of an enthusiast away from home on a tour of this kind for the first time?" Mr. Perry made it clear that he is no novice—at this sort of adventure. In the Pacific Coast he has made it a hobby for six years to spend a few weeks each Summer touring the country in an automobile with full camping equipment, staying where he likes, going where there are roads and returning when he gets good and ready. He has camped all the way from Portland to Bellingham and from Davenport and Spokane to Seattle, taking in all the side trips, including the ascent of Mt. Baker and other features of American coast scenery. He has "done" the British Isles and Italy and does not hesitate to say: "Your Marine Drive—meaning the entire circuit from Dallas Road to Gordon Head, Sidney, Patricia Bay, Brentwood and back to Victoria—cells anything of similar kind I have ever seen."

To this exclamation Mrs. Perry added the mother's touch when she said: "Besides, I think it is such a good education for the boys."

"To get to the sea coast, see trans-Pacific liners, going in and going out, to make observation of your cosmopolitan, Asiatics and Hindus, attending their parts in real life, to mingle with Canadian boys and girls of their own age, to find out there is little difference in their education, their ideals, juvenile fancies and foibles. I think it is wonderful for them. It must make them understand as nothing else could that Anglo-Saxon people are one and alike."

Both Mr. Perry and Mr. Campbell, his traveling companion, had much to say in praise of the camp at Curtis Point, making apt comparison between this and the camps at Seattle and Portland. The Curtis Point camp for its size is declared to be ideal. The selection of Mr. Perry, the quoted mouthpiece of numerous guests at the camp is made, not because of essential differences of opinion between him and others but because of the emphatic manner in which he reiterated his admiration of Victoria and Island scenery. He is but one of the many visitors who except the hospitality of this camp for a few days, hurry on the up-Island tour, returning to make preparations for homecoming, Uncle Sam.

The inauguration of the Summer automobile camping round at Curtis Point is a timely recognition of the fact that this class of Summer tourist travel is increasing at a pace that will tax the resources of favorite seasonal resorts to provide adequate accommodation. Long and tedious railway journeys, with their limited itinerary, expense, toilet obligations and weariness of the flesh are being abandoned by multitudes of sufficiently well-to-do people who prefer the leisurely, self-directed and moderately Bohemian privileges of automobile travel. So considerably has this method of holiday-making progressed that manufacturers of automobiles have recognized its importance and have begun catering to this trade in specially designed and constructed cars outfitted for this kind of travel. Not a day passes but the camp site at Curtis Point witnesses the arrival of one or more of these special cars exhibiting the advantages of both owner and builder when each has had his say as to style and convenience in its construction.

A Touring Pullman Auto.

Last week witnessed the arrival of one of the most compact and convenient of these cars, owned by Mr. Eugene E. Griffes of Hollywood, Cal., where Mr. Griffes is an electrical engineer in the home of movie production. This was the first home of "Pullman" car to arrive in the local park. Its peculiarities are that its wheel spread is six inches narrower, the wheel base two and one-half feet shorter and weight 500 pounds less than ordinary cars of this kind. The cab is built to extend over the engine and the wind shield is vertically above the radiator. This plan of construction divides weight more equally between front and rear axles while the narrower and shorter wheel bases make handling of the car in narrow or rutty roads much easier than in other cases. At the right and left of the engine box are small storage boxes, while at the rear of the "cab" are seats as in a locomotive so that Mr. and Mrs. Griffes both occupy seats in the "pull-house" when the car is on tour.

A picture of the car appears in the left hand side of the cut in this article. The residential part of the car is, as to its detail, the design of Mr. Griffes. It is a revelation of ingenuity in parvo and superficially it is inconceivable that so much space can be negotiated for such a variety of purposes. The bed is a full sized double mattress, folding in by means of a marquee when in use, the marquee sinking into and becoming a finished side of the car when on the road.

Inside the "house" there is adequate equipment for every rational requirement of the two occupants. A gas stove supplies heat for culinary purposes, a 30-gallon tank suspended beneath the car supplies water delivered under pressure from taps. The kitchenette and pantry have places for everything and everything is kept in its place. Lockers, clothes closets, library, desk, table, chairs, mirrors, toilet conveniences, candleabra and lamps complete the equipment and the whole interior is so well ventilated that practically one lives in the open air.

Even a chemical fire extinguisher is not overlooked. The car loaded, including two passengers, weighs 2,200 lbs. and Mr. Griffes made the trip from Hollywood leaving there June 15. The tour included an exploration of the Giant Forest of California in many parts of which grades are from 27 to 30 per cent. Of course the owner thinks there could be no other equally serviceable car.

It is somewhat surprising, however, to find how important the personal equation counts in this idea of comfort in auto travel. A few of the cars arriving have "trailer" attachments on which the stanchions and light lumber necessary to the erection of a tent dwelling of substantial proportions and staid timbers are a feature. Trailers never have been numerous and now are becoming obsolete as they have proved inconvenient when bucking a car or threading narrow and devious roads. By far the more numerous outfits show tents carried on running boards with bedding and culinary equipment stored in boxes attached in rear of cars or alongside the engines. The seasoned camper knows just where to lay his hands on each piece of furniture and the erection of a tent, installation of bedding and establishment of kitchen accommodation in any convenient camping site is the work of minutes only. Cars from Calgary, Edmonton and as far south as Omaha and Salt Lake City demonstrate the consensus of preference for this style of equipment.

Most of the auto tourists prefer accommodation such as is provided in the numerous free camping sites now inaugurated in many of the towns along favorite transcontinental routes. They know that every convenience will be obtainable anywhere one of these tarrying places and plan their trips to reach such havens. Seattle, Tacoma and Portland have perhaps the best equipped and largest of these camp sites, that of Seattle having accommodation for 1,000 cars. In this camp the business of handling tourists has been brought to almost technical perfection though visiting tourists still suggest improvements in the methods adopted.

Seattle Model Camp.

The camp at Seattle lies about two miles west of the Pacific Highway and three or four miles north of the city proper. For purposes of approach it is a closed park, entrance to which is available at only one point. Even here a guard chain bars admission until the camp supervisor registers and admits the guests. Registration includes name of owner of car, home address, license number, make of car, number of passengers, and the number of the permit. On the back of the tag handed out at registration is a digest of the park rules, a charge of 50c a day is made for the accommodation afforded. The income from this source at the Seattle park has paid a profit on the expenses of management, caretaking, light, water and incidentals so far. One of the chief utilities of this service is the detailed and voluminous information that is made available and tours, distribution of route maps and, where desired, letters of introduction to civic and government authorities throughout the Province.

Similar Victorian Project.

Satisfactory as the Curtis Point free camp site has proved in this, the first year of its inauguration the increasing number of guests utilizing its accommodations is clear indication that it will not long serve for the increasing demands that will be made upon its space and equipment. Every legal visitor to the camp is impressed with the idea that if Victoria is to hold the position it commands easily in the appreciation of this class of tourists, some more generous provision must be made for their accommodation while here.

Though this is the first season such accommodation has been available on Vancouver Island. The number of tourists bivouacking in the Curtis Point Camp was 329.

Averages for the month of August so far are somewhat higher. But next year must see something bigger and better. As a member of the City Council and active member of the Chamber of Commerce, Alderman A. E. Todd has given a good deal of time and thought to planning a modern camp site which should fulfill the requirements of the fast increasing travel for some years to come. A careful student of the Seattle and Portland camps, Alderman Todd holds advanced ideas on what Victoria should possess. He is not alone, however, in his earnest advocacy of ample camping accommodation under civic or other responsible auspices. Several prominent citizens who have toured the Georgian Circled and citizens alike. Every social club and almost every quasi public organization might be expected to take a wholesome interest in the development and maintenance of such a centre of attraction. The possibilities of such a scheme, the ramifications of the benefits to be derived, the advertisement of the city to continental distances and the direct and indirect local advantages of such an undertaking appear beyond question or cavil.

When, as now, campers stay in the city a few days, their visits might be prolonged to weeks. That is exactly what they say themselves.

USING THE CAR AS A HOME

the Register of Curtis Camp shows that the number of parties utilizing the free camping sites of the county is increasing. The wide range of territory from which they hail, together with the unquestionable value of these touring parties as disseminators of information respecting British Columbia, constitutes them a factor in the development of the Province that should be fostered and cultivated. It should be known that the present accommodation is by courtesy of the V. I. A. A. which organization hold a lease of the property comprising the camp. Under the aegis of the Chamber of Commerce initial organization of camp oversight has been effective. Though the services are voluntary and unremunerated, Mr. Charles Macdonald, as Registrar of the camp, and during the hours of management, attention and planning when he is in camp he acts as a cicerone of the guests. All the guests are eulogistic of the geniality, courtesy and general helpfulness of Retaining all the admirable features of the present site at Curtis Point—the swimming pool, tennis courts, basketball ground, athletic equipment, pergolas, tea and refreshment rooms, community ranges, ample water supply, wood and fuel station, sanitary conveniences and such like—the provisions might be considerably extended. These might include laundry facilities with stationary tubs, wash boards, electrically heated ironing, shower bath facilities and thoroughly modern sanitary conveniences.

For the most of these a modest charge should be made, and a canvass of the sentiment of those guests now stopping in this park testifies to the appreciation with which such advan-

ECONOMY IN TIRES IS MOST ESSENTIAL

Motorist Should Keep Them in Good Repair, Says Dealer

A man of business would never think for a moment of going about with a down at the heel appearance and it is no more to be expected that the particular motorist should appear on the public highway with a car equipped with worn and dilapidated tires, says A. McGavin, Blanshard Street tire dealer and repair man.

A stitch in time saves nine and this true saying can very well be applied to the upkeep of tires, continues Mr. McGavin, who has one of the most up-to-date vulcanizing and tire repair shops in the city.

Many motorists will pay no attention whatever to their tires, and they do not even bother to look them over once in a while to see whether they stand to reason that when tires have to be replaced so much hard usage that sooner or later there is bound to be a cut or a bruise somewhere in the tire.

Great care is exercised at Mr. McGavin's plant in restoring tires to a state of efficiency. Advice is always available as to the best means of ex-

MOTOR ACCIDENT ON MAPLE BAY ROAD

(Times Correspondence)

Duncan—A nasty accident occurred on the Maple Bay Road Thursday afternoon, when a light motor car driven by Mr. Davis, of Chemainus, collided with Mr. J. C. L. Henslowe's slightly heavier car. Mr. Davis, with Mr. George Fox, was coming from Maple Bay to Duncan, when Mr. Henslowe came up behind and tooted for Mr. Davis to allow him to pass. Mr. Davis drew over to the side and Mr. Henslowe started to pass. It seems that before he was quite clear, however, through an error, Mr. Davis turned into the road again. Watch the classified ads. Mr. Davis's car and sent it over the road into the fence. Both Davis and Fox were thrown out and Mr. Henslowe hired a car, which brought them to Chemainus, where they live, and Mr. Davis was attended to at the Chemainus hospital. Beyond a shaking Mr. Fox was all right, but Mr. Davis will be in the hospital a little while.

ANNOUNCE NEW PRICE OF STUDEBAKER CARS

Factors That Made Reduction Possible Shown

Important reductions in the prices of all Studebaker cars, effective August 1, are announced by the Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Ltd., through President A. R. Ebskine. The reductions range from $100 to $200 on the Light-Six models; from $225 to $300 on Special-Six models and from $200 to $325 on Big-Six models.

"Although Studebaker plants in Canada and the United States have on hand unfilled orders for 15,000 cars," said President Ebskine, "it is a Studebaker policy of long standing that our manufacturing savings be shared with our customers—hence the reductions. The quality of Studebaker cars has not been decreased one iota. On the contrary, they are better than ever and offer the greatest values in the history of Studebaker. The investment of $28,000,000, operating at capacity, produced 60,000 cars, the first six months of this year, and broke all records. Everybody knows that standardized cars manufactured complete in large quantities, reduce the cost of manufacturing and marketing and therefore give the greatest intrinsic value per dollar of price."

"By manufacturing complete motors, transmissions, axles, frames, bodies, castings, forgings and stampings, parts makers profits on such items in Studebaker cars are eliminated and one profit only is included in Studebaker prices. Buyers benefit accordingly."

"With $73,000,000 of actual net assets, including $28,000,000 of plants, and an organization of able, experienced men and workers who participate in the profits of the business, Studebaker stands unsurpassed in resources and ability to manufacture economically and give maximum intrinsic value for a given price."

"The world-wide popularity of Studebaker cars rests upon their dependable performance in owners' use. Proof of their dependability is found in the fact that Studebaker's sales of repair parts, covering repairs from accidents as well as service, for the past seven months, averaged about $7 per car for the 400,000 Studebaker cars now in operation. In the 30 months since January 1, 1920 Studebaker produced and sold 186,000 cars and are now producing and selling at the rate of 125,000 cars per year (practically double last year's volume which was the greatest in the history of Studebaker) and yet our total sales of repair parts this year are less than those of last year's for the first seven months of 1919."

Tommy Sojourns in Topsy-Turvy Land

IT WAS a hot day; and tired by ceaseless caperings on the beach Tommy was beginning to disobey his parents. He has twice been warned when he again did what he had been told not to do, that was, go near a large fire that was burning on the sands. While ten feet away from the fire Tommy felt a sudden shooting sensation in his right foot and cried out.

Annoyed at the misbehavior of the lad, his parents left him alone for a moment and then, as he did not stop crying, went to see what was the matter. In stepping on a red hot coal Tommy had burned his foot severely and was now suffering in real earnest. Rushing home by car Tommy was soon in bed with his foot tied up, and indeed receiving far more attention than any naughty boy should.

Once the pain of the burn quietened down a little Tommy began to feel very sleepy. The fresh air was getting in its work. While in that happy condition between wakefulness and slumber Tommy thought he heard voices. Lazily he opened his eyes, but there was no one in the room saving himself. The voices persisted, quite close to his bed. "This is he" said one. "Are you sure?" asked another. "Certain," replied yet a third, "must be, for this is Tommy Jones, and it was Tommy Jones who burned his foot through disobedience to-day," continued the last to speak.

Looking again, Tommy now beheld three hobgoblins in the room. The leader was about three feet in height, but appeared to be very old. His companions were somewhat smaller, and not so old. They were dressed in red, but the two smaller dwarfs were dressed in livery. On shoulder straps they carried the letters "T.T.L." In the hand of the leader was a silver whistle, or so Tommy judged it to be.

"Oh!" cried Tommy in delight, "and who are you?"

"Hush!" said one of the menials, "you address the king."

Tommy did not "hush," instead he kept right on asking questions.

"There is no doubt about it," said the leader of the dwarfs at last, "for no other boy could be so ill-behaved. Take him."

In spite of a sharp tussle Tommy found himself in the arms of the two little men in livery. These, Tommy found, were surprisingly strong. "Are you soldiers?" asked Tommy, his curiosity getting the better of him in spite of his fright. "Yes, we belong to the 9th Lancers Topsy-Turvy Land," was the reply. Then followed a long journey; Tommy was forced to walk the last half, and for the last mile, indeed, he was made to carry the king on his shoulders. Peculiarly enough he did not now feel the pain of a burned foot.

"What or where is Topsy-Turvy Land?" he asked at last. The soldiers pointed to the front, but Tommy could not see for the right heel of the king was just then knocking his nose around, and the silken boot obscured the view. "Topsy-Turvy Land, young man," said the king, giving Tommy's nose yet another jab with his heel, "is the country where all naughty boys are placed until they learn sense."

"But shall I not see my daddy and mummy any more?" asked Tommy, now in tears.

"Yes, your parents will be given to you to look after, and you will have to see that they come to no harm," was the strange reply.

By this time Tommy had reached the outskirts of Topsy-Turvy Land and the king ordered Tommy to set him down. Tommy nothing loth dropped his majesty with a resounding crash. "Stupid idiot," cried the angry monarch, "give him three to look after." No sooner was this said than Tommy found himself staring into the faces of his mother, father and Aunt Jane. Aunt Jane by the way was Tommy's favorite aunt; but what a change had taken place. Tommy found he was twice as tall as his parents, and nearly three times as tall as Aunt Jane. If he had not known them for his relatives Tommy would have guessed the three to be children. Somehow he felt older already.

"Other bad boys are just given their father and mother to mind," stated the king, not without some spite, "but you are different and must mind these three. Remember, they are in your care and if a hair of their head be harmed you will suffer."

Whether it was the strange voice of the king or not, Tommy did not know, but all three charges began howling at once. "Stop them," roared the king. Tommy knelt down and patted his father on the head, but the parent only cried the louder. His mother clung to his clothing and sobbed, while Aunt Jane simply sat down on the ground and howled. Tommy was distracted. He rushed from one to the other with his handkerchief until that grimy rag became so wet with their tears that he hung it out and stared again. Unexpected relief in the shape of a roving band of parents brought smiles to the faces of his charges again, and Tommy breathed more freely.

The band, composed of four daddies who banged tin plates with pieces of stone, and a like number of mothers who played combs with tissue paper over them was funny enough in all conscience, but it got on Tommy's nerves. He felt an almost uncontrollable impulse to yell at the musicians to stop. "Blare, bang, crash," went the band, and Tommy found his parents had scuttled after the procession. All around him Tommy saw distressed boys and girls of his own age, each trying to coax their parents to come back and be good. How he grew as each secured hold of their charges, and the scene was painful.

In desperation Tommy seized his father from behind, laid him over his knee and spanked him well. His father howled, while his mother left the band to run at Tommy and scratch his face. Aunt Jane did not help matters by keeping on after the band which was by this time almost out of sight. At this moment a policeman came up, a young giant of some four years, nonchalantly swinging a baton. "Hi! you," he said. "You must move, those parents are ruining him in his studies," Tommy looked and saw Professor Books, a slender boy of about six years of age, wearing horn rimmed spectacles.

Bundling his mother under one arm, Aunt Jane under another and pushing his father in front of him Tommy took his trio along the road. Presently they came to the sea, and at once all three charges developed a violent love for the beach. His father, when Tommy was not looking ran into the water up to his knees and began paddling. Mother and Aunt Jane were calmly removing their shoes and socks. Tommy felt lost and looked around for help. Only a number of other boys and girls trying to keep their parents out of the water met his eyes.

"Want a bun," called his mother. "No you don't, you just had a meal," insisted Tommy earnestly. "Want a bun, want a bun, want a bun," screamed his fond parent, while the chant was taken up by his aunt. His dad was quiet just then, but the full was fraught with for-

FOR CHILDREN The Sandman Story For To-night

JACK FROST CATCHES WHISKERS SQUIRREL

"YOU must not go far away from home," warned Mrs. Squirrel, as Whiskers ran out of the house one frosty morning.

"The sun is nice and warm now, but it will be chilly by and by, and if you get lost Jack Frost or his uncle the Frost King, will nip your nose and ears, and perhaps worse than that may happen, so don't run away from the woods."

That should have been enough for Whiskers to know, but it wasn't for he had never lived through a Winter, and did not fear Jack Frost. So away he ran down the path and straight out of the woods.

Along the road he went until he came to a stone wall and up on the wall and along that until he came to the window of a house, where he knew there would be some nuts and sugar. After he had eaten them if Whiskers had run right home he probably would have escaped what happened. But he didn't. He ran into a tree near the house to wait for more nuts and sugar to be placed on the window sill of the house.

But that day it happened that the little girl who placed the nice things there had gone away and so Whiskers waited and waited, and at last it grew dark and chilly, and still Whiskers sat in the tree.

He could not go home because it was so dark, and though his coat was quite thick he began to shiver.

Creeping close to the tree trunk, Whiskers tried to shelter himself from the cold wind, but the leaves were all gone and there was nothing to protect him. He must have fallen asleep, for when he opened his eyes the sun was just peeping over the hill.

But what was the matter? He was cold, to be sure, but why couldn't he run down the trunk of the tree and go home? He tried again, but he could not move, and then Whiskers discovered that his feet were stuck fast to the limb of the tree and his beautiful tail was all covered with something white.

"Jack Frost!" he said, growing terribly frightened. "He came while I slept and nipped my toes."

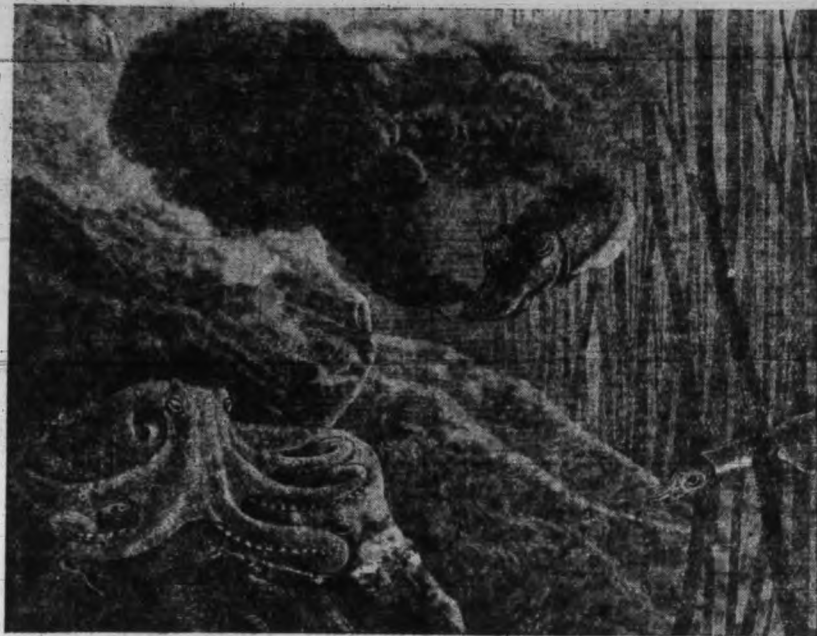

And there he had to sit until the sun grew nice and warm and melted the frost around his toes and his bushy tail, and then, with very sore feet, poor Whiskers crept down the tree. After a long and very uncomfortable journey he reached his home.

His mother was so glad to see him that she quite forgot to scold, for she thought Jack Frost had certainly done something more terrible than nip Whiskers' toes.

But all Winter Whiskers had time to be sorry he did not mind and stay in the woods that day, for his feet were so frost-bitten he could not run about even on the days when the sun was shining warm in the woods and the other squirrels were out in the sunshine.

And if you should happen to meet some day a squirrel who cannot run as fast as its mate, you may be quite certain that it is Whiskers who was nipped by Jack Frost.

Scouts Preparing For First Inspection by Governor-General

SCOUTS and cubs of the city and district scouting organizations are looking forward to the inspection and rally to be held at Government House on Wednesday next, if present plans mature. Three hundred boys, comprising the pick of ten scout troops and eleven packs of this city will be on parade on that day before His Excellency the Governor-General, Lord Byng. As Lord Byng is not only the Chief Scout of Canada, but also an active scout who trained in the movement from the earliest days, the event is being eagerly anticipated by the boys.

Plans for the affair are in the hands of District Commissioner G. H. Scarlett, and as far as is known at present the inspection and rally will take place on Wednesday afternoon, commencing at 2.30 o'clock. Formal inspection of all city troops and packs, including the units from the outlying districts, will open the event. This will be followed by a general rally, and if the endeavors of the local committee be successful His Excellency may find time to say a few words to the boys.

In other centres Lord Byng delighted scout leaders by expressing a desire to take a group of patrol leaders and drill them in person, thus setting an example that carried much weight with those within the scouting movement, and its supporters. It was in the City of Toronto that His Excellency invited twenty of the leading business men to witness a scout demonstration. Taking a patrol Lord Byng put it through the regular training of the scouting movement, and the impression created won twenty active supporters among the most influential business heads of that city.

On Saturday next the scouts and wolf cubs of the city are hosts to a large gathering of their friends at Curries Point, at the Gorge, where an excellent gala is planned to take place. Shields for the scout and the cub obtaining the greatest number of points are to be competed for in a number of aquatic events. Demonstrations of life-saving, and other scout training is to be given during the event. Ever excellent hosts, the scouts are looking for active support on this occasion, and have an excellent programme prepared for the gala.

Our Camera Lovers Should Make Haste

LESS than two weeks remain now before the photographic contest draws to a close. The results to date have far exceeded the most optimistic hopes, and it is found that many of our little readers not only take a keen delight in photography but are proficient at that art. The winner of the weekly award is Miss Eva Hambleton, a sixteen-year-old reader, of 2559 Blackwood Avenue. Miss Hambleton has twice previously been successful in this contest, and this time submitted a photograph which eclipsed other entries by a considerable margin.

The winner has contributed a study of two little girls with their grandmother which forms a very charming group. Miss Winifred Chapman, 1427 Gladstone Avenue, also a previous prize winner, submitted an excellent study of two merry holiday makers, but the photograph of the print is not as good as formerly.

For the last two weeks of the contest see if you can not submit the best picture of the series to date. Remember pictures of beautiful places, novelties, and people are all welcomed in this event. There have been a great number of entries in the first class, some in the second section, but not many in the last division; yet pictures of people often form the most engaging of all photographs.

As stated previously, all entries will be held until the close of the contest for judging in the final awards. Four prizes await the winners of the whole series: a first of $5, second of $3, third of $2, and a special prize to be announced later. When submitting photographs be sure to enclose your name, age, and address, and if you should want the print returned enclose a stamped envelope for this purpose. All of sixteen years of age and under are eligible for the contest, while entries must be the actual work of the contributor, taken since July 8 of this year.

HIS FATAL MISTAKE

"Ah, this language!" wailed the Freshman. "Here I have spent four hours learning to pronounce 'tuberculosis' and now I see the doctors say it is nearly always pronounced 'fatal'!"

TIGERS OF THE SEA HAVE ENEMIES TOO!

THE discovery recently in local waters of numbers of cuttle fish will lend interest to a brief sketch of that tiger-like marine, mauler. Though the shark is commonly given the credit of being the most rapacious creature of the seas, yet the real culprit is the cuttle fish, or the Cephalopod which in innumerable numbers inhabit almost every one of the Seven Seas, and grow from a matter of inches to creatures weighing many tons. The cuttle fish found on this coast are relatively small compared to those taken in deep waters. Cuttle fish with two long tentacles over a hundred feet in length and many feet thick are not uncommon in other latitudes.

Equipped with a soft body, irregular and bulky in shape the cuttle fish has eight arms and two longer tentacles. These are equipped with what are called suckers, or innumerable air-pumps of extraordinary power. Ranged in pairs, generally, along the underside of the cuttle fish, the suckers are individual pumps in which strong pistons are operated. When wishing to seize a prey the cuttle fish throws its tentacles around it, the pistons in the suckers being advanced, and then withdraws the pistons. The vacuum thus created is so nearly perfect that it requires the greatest of force to shake the hold of the tentacles.

Large saucer eyes, set on either side of a huge parrot-like beak complete the main features of these ugly creatures. The beak is armed with two sets of horny jaws which in themselves are the most efficient crushers. When we wish to crack the claws of a crab we are forced to use a pair of nutcrackers or something of that nature; the cuttle fish takes a crab, shell and all, and smashes it to a pulp without a moment's hesitation. Equipped with a large body and a keen appetite the cuttle fish soon acquires the habit of killing constantly and are known to kill for the mere love of slaughter. They are the tigers of the undersea world.

One of a family of mollusks that numbers ten thousand different brethren the cuttle fish is perhaps the strongest and the most fierce. It is hard to believe that the cuttle fish is a near brother of the harmless shell-fish that we can find hanging to the rocks on our beaches, yet it is so. While their manner of hunting may not appeal to us the cuttle fish are clever. Hidden well in the fissure of a rock on the ocean bottom the cuttle fish waits for his prey to draw near.

It may be a fish, a crab, or a very much smaller marine creature but as soon as it appears one arm is thrown out and the suckers reach out to the luckless prey. If the prey should show fight and be strong then the two arms or more are brought into play until the poor creature is captive. Alive and struggling, it is drawn inexorably towards the parrot-beak between two gleaming eyes of fire. When seen on the surface of the water, whence they slide at intervals, the cuttle fish are to be readily discerned by reason of the fact that their eyes glow like those of a cat, green and bluish.

It comes as a relief then to know that this killer, this wanton taker of lives is himself subject to many enemies and often meets swift retribution for his sins. Including man, who hunts him for the inkly fluid he carries as a "smoke screen" and which we know as sepia, the cuttle fish is sought and killed by the sperm whale which takes a keen delight in having one for breakfast. The albatross and the petrel like them to eat, too, and these smaller varieties when they come to the surface of the water. Unless they be well grown cuttle fish are of little danger to human beings, but in the largest sizes they present a terror that man advisedly shuns.

Puddleville Gains A Frog of Experience But Little Wisdom

"FROGGIE would awooning go," the old rhyme tells us, and goes on to relate the amorous adventures of Froggie, who though large for his pool was but a small frog after all. In the world of frogs. The trouble with Froggie, of course, lay in the fact that his ambition was not founded upon the rock of common sense, but loose and foundering in a bog of impossibilities.

From babydom Froggie had lived in a small pool and heard old and grizzly frogs croak their woes at night. They would complain of rheumatism, lack of respect from the young, and a great many other matters that displeased their Frogships; but it was ever a complaint.

From babydom Froggie had lived in a small pool and heard old and grizzly frogs croak their woes at night. They would complain of rheumatism, lack of respect from the young, and a great many other matters that displeased their Frogships; but it was ever a complaint.

Now if Froggie had been less successful in Puddleville, he might have been the best of it and stayed in Lakeside to become a real frog some day; but success and flattery had spoiled him and he pined for the applause of his native heath. In less than twenty-four hours after his arrival Froggie shook the last drop of Lakeside water from his lowered head and hopped a lonely, sad way back to Puddleville. His lesson, one would have thought, would have been remembered, but within a week Puddleville was paying increased homage to Froggie, who had now become more illustrious for "having been abroad."

Ambition, little reader, is the motive power which makes for success, but without a steady head, progress by this means becomes over-ambition and failure. Ambition, wisely founded on worth, is a virtue, over-ambition and bombastic conceit, often found in close company, are two of the seven deadly evils.

get black walnut or mahogany lumber, get gum or basswood, and stain with mahogany or walnut stain. All lumber used is 3/4 in. thick, excepting the partition, which is 1/2 in.

Plane the various pieces accurately to the dimensions shown above. Make the side pieces 3/4 in. high, instead of 5/8 as indicated in the diagram.

Fasten the front, back, and end pieces together with glue and brads. The inside partition and the bottom can also be fastened in place at the same time.

Mark for Top.

Now, before fastening on the top of the cabinet, take a marking gage and, gaging down from the top edge, mark two lines all the way around the box, one 1 1/4 in. and the other 1 1/2 in. from the top. Glue and brad the top on.

With a rip saw, saw between the two gage lines, separating the cover from the rest of the box. The extra 1/4 inch was added to the height of the side and end pieces will take care of the stock removed when the cover is sawed off.

Fasten hinges and catch in place. If desired, screw a handle on top.

After the hinges, catch, and handle have been fitted on, remove the stain and sandpaper the whole cabinet thoroughly. Then stain it carefully. After the stain has dried, apply two or three coats of shellac or varnish.

HERE'S HOW YOU MAKE IT

Above are plans for a box cabinet to house the radio receiving instrument described here last week. The larger compartment is for the instrument itself, and the smaller one for the receiver, extra crystal, etc.

If you happen to have a receiving instrument, not made in accord with plans given here, you can easily alter the dimensions of the cabinet to make it fit exactly the instrument you have.

Contempt for Red Tape Was Sir Hamar's Trait

Greenwood Brought the Snobishness of His Brother-Officers Direct to the Governor-General

By W. L. EDMONDS.

WHATEVER may be his attitude of mind on the subject since he entered British political arena and obtained knighthood, Sir Hamar Greenwood when a young man had a decided contempt for red tape.

On one occasion, while taking an officers' training course at Stanley Barracks, Toronto, the exercise of this contempt brought upon his head—which had more hair than at present—the ire of the commandant.

Sir Hamar Greenwood.

Sir Hamar (then a student at the University of Toronto) not being in those days blessed with a superabundance of financial resources, could not afford to wear while attending the officers' mess the uniform prescribed for such occasions. This so offended certain of his brother officers that he was treated as a sort of pariah. Not being the kind of man to meekly submit to indignities of this or any other kind, Greenwood dropped a line of complaint direct to the minister of militia at Ottawa. A few days later while the officers' training class was being put through its "facings" on the parade ground, an orderly appeared and announced: "The commandant wishes to see Mr. Greenwood."

"Mr. Greenwood," began the commandant, as former entered the office of the latter and stood at attention. "The department at Ottawa has returned to me certain correspondence from you. You fool, don't you know that it is contrary to regulations to do so. After this, if you have any complaints to make do so through me. You may go."

A day or two later Greenwood was again called from the parade ground to the commandant's office.

"Mr. Greenwood," exclaimed the commandant in a towering rage, "a day or so ago I told you that you were a fool. To-day I want to tell you that you are a double-dyed fool. I specifically informed you on that occasion that I am the one through whom all official correspondence must pass. But instead of obeying my command you have had the effrontery to write direct to the Governor-General himself regarding the treatment you have received from your brother officers. If this occurs again there is only one alternative. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir," replied the offending officer with dignified sarcasm. "And it didn't occur again. But no one can tell what might have happened had not those of his brother officers who were such sticklers for military etiquette accorded better treatment to the irresponsible Hamar."

A FLOWER WITH A STOMACH.

THAT certain insect-devouring plants secrete juices containing a powerful digestive ferment which acts like that of the human stomach, has been determined by Dr. Joseph S. Hephburn of the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia.

One of these plants is the Venus fly trap, which is a native of North Carolina. Each of its leaves is provided with several trigger hairs, and closes like the pod of a lima bean.

When an insect comes upon the leaf, it may touch one of the trigger hairs, but nothing happens. As the insect moves about upon the leaf it may touch the same trigger hair a second time or it may touch another trigger hair.

The investigators demonstrated the presence in the secreted liquid, of a digestive ferment which acts like that of the human stomach—Detroit News.

In either case, on the second contact, the leaf snaps shut upon the helpless insect. A liquid is poured out and the carcass of the insect is digested.

Forgetting Bouquets Brings Sad Results

Premier Meighen Still Meditates Upon the Evasive Expression, "Say
It With Flowers!"

THERE is the familiar expression, "Say it with flowers." Right Honorable Arthur Meighen is still wondering ironically whether the electorate of Canada said it that way on the fateful day, December 8, 1921.

Arthur Meighen.

Due largely to his remarkable capacity for concentration upon one subject, Mr. Meighen is notoriously absent minded where small details are concerned.

During the strenuous two weeks' tour of Ontario with which he closed his campaign last year, the then prime minister was presented with bouquets of flowers in almost every city which he visited. It was always the duty of an attendant to see that Mr. Meighen carried the flowers away with him at the close of his speech.

"I'd be sure to forget them myself," the Conservative chieftain confessed. "And if I did it would be sure to cost me a constituency."

Which would indicate that Mr. Meighen must have left a lot of bouquets behind him in various parts of Canada.

Why the Revered Patre Had the Strongest Horse

In the Whole First Division There Was No Stronger Horse Than Canon Scott's

By EX-CORP. W. BALDWIN.

ONE never tires hearing about our beloved padre, Canon Scott, who no matter where he was and under what circumstances had a kindly word for everyone, no matter what his division or what his rank.

Canon Scott.

It was while on the Lens sector front that the following incident occurred. A battalion of the first brigade was in rest billets after a strenuous series of trips to the trenches, and suddenly who should appear but Canon Scott, looking positively worn out, but still beaming with the perennial smile he carried with him in dark days or bright.

He cheerfully bade the boys good-bye as he dismounted from his charger, a powerful big horse, who looked far fresher than his master on this day. This I mentioned to the padre as he jumped to the ground.

He merely smiled and said: "Do you know, my boy, I took good care to have the strongest horse in the first division."

Being of an inquisitive nature, I hesitated only for a moment before I enquired, "How is that, padre?"

I was dumfounded, you can easily imagine when he replied, as if greatly surprised, "Why does he not carry a cannon?"

A LITTLE GIRL THINKS THE KING IS WONDERFUL

KING GEORGE THE FIFTH of England recently was telling a group of friends of some of his experiences since the British crown and sceptre came into his keeping.

"I was at an informal tea the other afternoon," said the King, "and was bidding my distinguished hostess good-bye when her little daughter, a child of seven or eight years, came forward timidly, looking as if she had something to say. She was a beautiful child, and when her mother formally presented her she courted me prettily and said in a loud, clear voice, 'I think your Majesty is a very wonderful man.'"

"Why do you say that, my dear?" I asked. "Because," said the little girl, "mamma told me to."

WHO WAS THE TREE?

GENERAL, the Earl of Cavan, who visited Toronto lately, is unrivaled as an after-dinner speaker. At a banquet recently at which a number of famous artists were present he told a story that set everyone laughing—and wondering.

This is what he said: "Not far from me is sitting a distinguished academician who so successfully camouflaged himself as a tree when my corps took Pilkem Ridge in 1917 that I actually saw a man approaching him with a view to getting more firewood. I cannot pay a higher tribute to art than that."

Neither by word nor look did his lordship indicate the identity of the artist who so successfully camouflaged himself, and now everybody wants to know who it can be.

MADEGE "in taking a survey of the matrimonial situation, are you thinking of any one in particular?"

MAJORIE: "No, I'm just broadcasting."

A Family Man at the Helm in Manitoba.

FORMER PREMIER NORRIS is a confirmed bachelor, but not John Bracken, the new United Farmer premier-designate of Manitoba, principal of the Manitoba Agricultural College, who is seen standing in the college grounds with his wife and his four husky boys. It is principally on the merit of the high administrative ability he has displayed during the past two years in the plum of all the positions in the West that he has been chosen as premier of the new government. He is tall and thin as a race horse and was an all-round athlete in his youth at Brockville and the Agricultural College at Guelph.

Padre, Guileless and Guilty, "Sat In" at Poker With Amazing Results to Him and His Friends

Major Tolmie, Liberal M. P. P. for Windsor, a Retired Clergyman Who Served as Chaplain During the War, Wanted to Make a Donation to the Mess Fund of the Officers.

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that Major J. C. Tolmie, Liberal M. P. P. for Windsor, is a retired clergyman, he confesses that on one occasion he "sat in" on a poker game and emerged a substantial winner.

J. C. Tolmie.

The incident occurred in France where Major Tolmie served as a chaplain during the war. He had just received the sum of one hundred francs for which he had no immediate use, wished to contribute them to the officers' mess fund. His brother officers forbade him, however, declaring that such a contribution could not be accepted.

He explained to him, however, that it was customary to hold a poker game each evening, and that it was quite in order for the winner to donate a portion of his gains to the fund.

Major Tolmie thereupon decided to take a hand in the game, long enough to lose his hundred francs, which would thus find their way, indirectly, into the fund. The value of the hands was explained to him, and the cards were dealt. The chaplain found himself holding a pair of aces. A fellow-officer, who had undertaken to "coach" him, advised him to draw a third card. The three proved to be another ace, and a pair of tens. Major Tolmie's francs, instead of disappearing, practically doubled themselves on that first hand, and continued to grow as the evening advanced. Whenever the chaplain held a high hand, it so happened that two or three of the others held hands almost as high, which resulted in the stakes being swollen. When the chaplain deliberately bet upon a poor hand, in an effort to lose, money his adversaries, wary of "beginner's luck," did not even call him.

Major Tolmie rose from the table with more than five hundred francs in his possession, and it was only after a vigorous argument that he persuaded his companions to allow him to donate the entire amount to the mess fund.

THE WORSE OF THE TWO

DR. FRANK CRANE, the American popular philosopher, whose editorials reach millions, is at present on a visit to the Old Country where he has been entertained very much. At a dinner in London he told the following story: A visitor at a lunatic asylum noticed a patient tied to a rocking chair. He asked the attendant why this was.

"He was crossed in love," was the reply. "The rocking chair is the only thing that keeps him quiet."

The visitor was the next attracted by a man in a padded cell trying to knock his brains out against the wall.

"What's wrong with him?" he asked.

"Oh," said the attendant, "that's the man who got the girl!"

The Five Dollar Bill R. J. Kept in Reserve

It was Always in Circulation and Never Seemed to Return.

IN the olden days when Robert John Fleming was mayor of Toronto, he was much besieged by seekers of favors, financial and otherwise. Sometimes R. J. was able to avoid some of these pests by the aid of a side door, but when he was cornered he generally had a ready reply. A common request was for the loan of five dollars. To these the wily mayor would turn his widest smile, and then, calling in his secretary, he would say: "George, has So-and-So returned that money yet?" Of course the secretary would answer in the negative.

Then, the bland smile still at work, R. J. would say to the would-be borrower: "Awfully sorry, my dear fellow, but the five dollar bill that I keep for lending to my friends is out and has not been returned. Just as soon as I get it back—"

And by that time the loan-seeker would be making for the door.

R. J. Fleming.

Barrie, the Whimsical Champion of Youth

Elderly England Is Disturbed Over His
Division of the Sheep and the Goats

BARRIE's now famous rectorial address on courage at St. Andrew's may have been angelically written, for he can say anything beautifully, but England is not just so sure about his division of the sheep and the goats. It was a highly gratified audience of young people that listened to Sir James's delicious satire on the older, parasitic generation that exploited youth to fight its battles, to his suggestion for a protective league of youth.

But Miss Rose Macaulay, the author, would like to know just where Barrie would draw the line of demarcation between this exceptionally noble generation and all the generations of vipers which have preceded them. Such advice tendered to boys on the threshold of life, "without experience or cynicism to treat it as an ironic stroke of humor," seems absolutely immoral to Lord Beaverbrook.

"Were not the old and middle-aged crew who failed to avert the disaster of the war—were they not, quite a few years ago, the young men of Europe?" the Manchester Guardian suggests. "Will not the young men who have survived the war be, in thirty or forty years, the directing elderly men? Youth and age are things terribly relative."

Barrie, perhaps, is laughing quietly over the row with Youth; for, though Youth may not understand him, he still knows Youth, as the following incident richly shows:

Not so very long ago one of "this young, noble generation" got a letter of introduction to the retiring literary knight. Barrie was charming. He talked amiable nothings for a minute or two just to put the other at his ease. The young fellow was intensely nervous and quite incapable of speaking a single sentence of half a dozen consecutive words.

At last Barrie, to make him feel quite at home, said: "Have a whisky and soda?"

"No, thank you," replied the youngster: "I—I don't drink."

A pause. After which: "Have a cigar?" said Barrie.

"No, thank you," answered the other: "I—I don't smoke."

The shy playwright eyed his visitor gently for several moments. Then he decided to make a last attempt:

"Have a talk," he whispered confidentially. The two were friends immediately.

It is Barrie's humor that makes his severest critics forgive those sometimes appalling lapses into sheer vagary and sentimentality.

Sir James Barrie.

USE HIM TO FERTILIZE POTATOES

JAMES CAMPBELL CHRISTIE, F.G.S., of Cathcart, Glasgow, N. B., retired schoolmaster and science teacher, who left personal property of the total value of $15,000, made the following provisions with regard to the disposal of his body:

"I specially and particularly desire that my body shall be cremated at the crematorium Maryhill. I paid the fee in advance on February 2, 1907."

"I wish the utmost simplicity to be observed; no hearse is to be used, only a plain cartage, or any simpler or less expensive way of conveying my body to Maryhill."

"I do not wish anyone to waste time attending my funeral."

"It will do no good to anyone, and the absence of the usual formalities will give poor Mr. and Mrs. Grundy something to talk about."

"I desire that the ashes of my body shall not be preserved."

"They may be disposed of by the crematorium or used by any of my trustees or others to fertilize their potatoes."

TO CUT LIVING COSTS

YOU ought to advertise that by dining at this restaurant people can cut the cost of living in two," suggested the gloomy looking patron, as he passed out.

"Oh, thank you, thank you, sir," exclaimed the proprietor, "Such appreciation!"

"Don't mention it," interrupted the patron. "I was just about to add that they'd do it by only living half as long."—Judge.

What Best to Carry on a Trip Overseas

Trunks Taken Abroad Should Always be Registered and Insured or You
May Lose Them Altogether

By LAURA MASON.

A HEAVY wrap is usually considered the sine qua non of an Atlantic voyage. It may, however, be omitted if a warm, sweat-proof material is provided for use under the suit coat. For general utility it is hard to find a better suiting material than Jersey, combining lightness, warmth and durability. One Canadian going abroad whose wardrobe must meet all occasions from horseback travel in the back of beyond to formal evening affairs in Paris and London has worked out a rather ingenious scheme of dress. For wear when a tailored woolen-suit is needed she has a trig little Jersey coat and skirt, which may in time of stress be tucked into a club bag. It may also be worn as a coat dress by the addition of some smart vest of linen or satin, affording variety of style and color. To evolve a wrap suitable for either travel or dress occasions she chose a very good light grey homespun with a finish almost like broadcloth. This was made into a three-piece costume. The long coat, semi-fitted to the waist and flaring below, was finished with cuffs and convertible collar of hand-made some grey fur fabric. With close fastened collar it was sufficiently plain for any occasion, but with collar turned back as revers, and skirt left free to show a touch of hand-made some thing it made an effective background for even a delicate dance frock. The dress en suite had detachable sleeves of the homespun, accompanied by crêpe and silk vests, and collars, but with it could also be worn a blouse from the plainly tailored type for morning to frivolous affairs for informal afternoon wear. In this happy era when the evening gown may differ from that for festive afternoon affairs chiefly in the matter of sleeves and décolletage, the simple made dance frock of soft satin was transformed for day wear by the addition of a handsome lace coat with elbow sleeves.

Of the small belongings of dress, shoes, are the items which encroach sadly on space. The collection to be taken is conditioned by the general character of the wardrobe, but for summer wear tucked in a pair of good white fabric Oxford. They are extremely comfortable, clean more readily than leather, and give the last touch of immaculacy to one's turn-out on a warm day. A pair of spats for use on shipboard makes heavy hosiery unnecessary, unless one is planning a walking tour. In the matter of gloves, apart from those for dress occasions, carry a supply of good quality chamoisette for general wear. They are washed as easily as one's hands, so need never be worn in a soiled condition. Only those who have traveled farthest and fared best realize what wonders a pleasant, well-groomed appearance works with luggage men, customs officers and harried major-domos of already full hotels.

Excess Baggage Costly.

IN choosing luggage it should be remembered that abroad the American checking system does not exist. Suitcases are generally taken into the compartment. For that reason the heavy leather variety, impervious to the onslaughts of the Canadian baggage man, comes a weariness of the fittest. For hand luggage choose the lightest weight compatible with a reasonable degree of strength. Wicker or enamel with good corners, locks and straps is an excellent choice—and by all means get a large size.

Another useful bit of impedimenta is a couple of yards of oilcloth in leather finish. Used with a good shawl strap and an auxiliary pair of straps, it is more than the equal of the English carry-all. It gives at all times a waterproof covering of good appearance, with wondrous powers of expansion, and makes a very fair substitute for the bulkier steamer rug.

When buying a steamer trunk it is advisable to take the largest size, which at best does not hold much in comparison with the tourist type. The wardrobe trunk has nothing against it, but the initial cost. There is a place for most of the necessities of travel; and as they are always kept in the same spot, exhausting packings and unpackings are avoided and the desired clothing is always at hand, fresh and unpressed. Whatever kind of trunk you take be sure to have it roped. The ropes save the trunk and help the men who have to handle it. On the European continent a trunk always counts as excess baggage. The expense and anxiety of looking after it is so great that one often makes shift with suitcases where otherwise a trunk would be thought indispensable.

Even in England, where the luggage allowance is more liberal, excess baggage is a luxury. I was taxed two dollars between Southampton and London, a distance of 79 miles, for a light steamer trunk, two light suitcases and a small carry-all—that is, I paid two and a third cents a pound for everything over my allowance of 100 pounds. And a Canadian baggage man would have loved me for traveling so light!

Trunks carried abroad should always be registered and insured—in which case one is safe from ultimate loss, though weeks or even months of delay may precede an adjustment. Foreign countries vary greatly in the safe conduct of travelers' luggage: Switzerland is good; England, fair; France, fair, and Italy, bad.

Important Trifles.

BEFORE starting on a journey it is a wise plan to make in a little notebook a list of things to be taken. The same list may be used year after year, with additions and eliminations, becoming in time a valuable record of the essentials of travel. Among important trifles on such a list are hot-water bottle, coat hangers, colloid, surgeon's tape, flashlight, soap leaves screw hooks, several chintz bags, an air pillow. Some of the items are self-explanatory. The soap leaves are little sheets of paper impregnated with soap, sold in packets of vest-pocket or handbag size. They produce such a lather that men in the trenches used them for shaving. Screw hooks of various sizes are a welcome adjunct to the hanging accommodation of the cabin or bedroom, and the chintz bags are useful for storing articles in frequent use, which would otherwise litter the stateroom. The air pillow is a boon for voyages affected by the vibration of ship or train. Placed with one end beneath the ordinary pillow and extending under the back of the neck and shoulders the air pillow deadens vibrations.

On a journey abroad there are at least three ways of taking one's money. Sufficient cash to cover incidental expenses in crossing and for a short time after landing is usually carried. The rest may be taken in the form of a letter of credit, travelers' cheques or a bank draft.

STEEL FINANCIERS TO MEET IN LONDON

Backing of Industry on This Coast to Be Arranged

Ministers of Three Governments to Settle Terms

Basic for the upbuilding of British Columbia as an industrial state will be laid in London next month at the conference of Imperial Government officials, British steel makers, the Hon. William S. Fielding, Minister of Finance for Canada, and a Cabinet Minister from British Columbia, according to H. J. Landahl, of Vancouver, who was at the Parliament Buildings last night and to-day completing arrangements for the conference.

The British Columbia Cabinet Minister will be either the Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, or the Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance.

At this London conference the financial arrangements will be completed for the construction of the $12,000,000 steel works on the British Columbia coast, which is being backed by the three Governments.

The Canadian Minister of Finance will sail for London next week. Mr. Landahl and the British Columbia Minister plan to sail from Quebec on September 1.

Five hundred mining men who have had iron claims staked in the Province for years have joined in the steel works proposal, the Government was informed to-day. These men have come to the conclusion that the only way they can get their properties developed is through a steel industry on this coast. They claim that many subsidiary manufacturing industries will spring up in Vancouver and other places as soon as there is an output of steel here.

NATIONAL PROBITY AND INDIVIDUAL DUTY IS URGED

Hon. W. D. McPherson, K. C., Heard in Stirring Appeal

Open Door Policy Not Needed If People Shoulder Share of Debt and Keep Heads

A striking appeal for national probity, to be fostered by a keener realization of individual duty to State and Empire, was made by Hon. W. D. McPherson, of Toronto, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Loyal Orange Association of British North America, in an inspiring address before the "Victoria County Lodge of Orangemen" last evening.

That Canada, under wise and far-seeing direction, could retain her country for the Canadians, without the objectionable influx of non-British population, caused by an "open door" policy of immigration, was urged by the speaker who pointed to vast territory and undeveloped resources of the great Dominion.

The British connection, a legacy without parallel, coupled to a determination to abide by conscience and the assumption of obligations, individually and as a state, would weld the people of Canada into a nation of the federated nations of the British Empire, held the speaker.

Canada's Progress.

That Canada in one generation had progressed as far as the United States in a like time, without the prodigality that laid waste her natural resources, was averred by the speaker who contended that a keener insight into personal duty to State and Empire would lead the people of Canada to the upbuilding of the land for their own and British use. In three generations the United States had got to the point where their capitalists were looking to Canada for natural resources, he continued. This had come about by a squandering of natural resource reserves until they disappeared.

The open door policy in the United States, he said, had led to racial troubles and other difficulties. In passing, the speaker paid high tribute to the national spirit of the citizens of the United States, in that they revered only the "Simon pure" American and not the hyphenated resident within their borders. That was one trait that could well be copied in Canada, continued the speaker.

A National Equilibrium.

"In Canada we have a magnificent system of administration, provincial legislatures, transcontinental railways, canals and educational facilities, or all the equipment for a nation of natural resources, but if we squandered that equipment, and all we require is that we shall not lose our heads with this great heritage that has been entrusted to us."

The Great War, he continued, had been productive of great national debts—debts that must be paid. Great Britain was staggering under a load of debt that was unique to the world, and yet no talk of repudiation was countenanced there.

The guardian angel of the liberties of the world, Great Britain had loaned money, credit, equipment to every nation that required it. She has not been paid. When you consider how people of the Old Country have carried their taxation and bent their backs to the burden, it provides a lesson in honesty and national honor very different indeed than from some of the nations of Europe.

"We have a debt of $2,000,000,000 to $2,500,000,000. It is a very large debt for a new country. We have this great public debt to pay. None of us would object to increased immigration if it be of a class that will assimilate in the national spirit of Canada, but if we let down the bars to those who have no conception of British institutions we would be doing a very dangerous thing."

To-day in the West we have an excessive 65 per cent. of foreign population, which we have only begun to assimilate.

All Canadian Policy.

"We want an all-Canadian policy. We want to pay off our war debts, to meet our Victory Bonds as they come due without further borrowing. Are we so pressed by our debts that the only escape is to let down the bars? Let me say, I am quite willing to pay through the nose, and to increase that payment, if we can save this country from the people who would come here without an appreciation of British customs or who our mothers and fathers have gone through."

"Let us be sober-minded about these things. Let us recognize our obligations when they are placed upon us and meet them in the same magnificent way that they are doing in the Old Country. At the Orange Association let us do all in our power to keep Canada for the Canadians."

Bi-Lingualism.

At this stage the speaker dealt at length with the fight for bi-lingualism and separate schools in the East, a factor that had not troubled B. C. yet, continued the speaker. "On this subject Mr. McPherson urged that religious education, outside of and apart from school hours, was the duty of parents to impart to the citizens of the future. If Canada were to succeed as a nation, it would only be by training clean boys and virtuous girls to grow to integrity and a conscience. Freedom of conscience was a tenet of the Empire, as was freedom of speech, held the speaker, who urged that the introduction of the Bible in literature into the schools of this Province would be to provide dissension that would lead to more serious matters as it had in the East. It would start sectarianism and lead to separate schools here. Without this, the supplementing of school education by home religious education was urgently needed. The children of to-day were ten times as intelligent, in that they had access to far greater knowledge, than the children of other days, but had lost something of the religious reverence that was then known. Children needed the steady influence of religion, to grow up into wise citizenhood."

The Sheet Anchor.

Without this steady influence the time would come when the sheet anchor would be torn away and Can-

"It is my duty to tell you and publish to all what your remedy 'Fruit-a-tives' has done for me.

"I suffered with Rheumatism for ten months; could hardly move in bed, and was miserable all the time. I tried several physicians and took many remedies, but they left me at the same place, in bed and suffering. The Rheumatism was so bad.

"I finally started in taking 'Fruit-a-tives' and continued the treatment regularly as I found myself getting better. After using eight boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' (which cost only $4) I am completely well without a trace of Rheumatism."

ada would become even as Russia, a drifting mass of dissension. "Let the Orange Association, with a Christian minister at its head, lead the van in B. C. We need good clean boys and virtuous girls if this Province is to become the diadem in the crown of the Dominion," he concluded.

Mr. McPherson was accorded a resounding ovation at the close of his remarks. Prior to the opening he was tendered an illuminated address conveying the loyalty of the Victoria County Lodge to his leadership. This was read by County Master W. McKinty.

Captain C. W. Whittaker, head of the Orange Association in British Columbia, occupied the chair, introducing the speaker in a brief address. At the conclusion of the speaking the assembly adjourned to the Dominion Hotel, where a most enjoyable banquet was staged in honor of the distinguished visitor.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the Summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Many of these troubles can be proved deadly if not promptly treated. During the Summer months the best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. (Advt.)

SEEK MONEY FOR HOSPITAL WORK

Directors to Get Funds to Complete Building; Want More Liquor Money

Money on hand for the construction of the new Jubilee Hospital wing will be exhausted when contracts are let and supplies ordered to date are paid for, the hospital directors learned at their meeting last night. Under these circumstances the board decided to ask the Women's Auxiliary for any money it has available for building purposes and for the $6,000 set aside for the Queen Victoria maternity ward.

The directors decided to make another effort to secure from the City Council the hospital's full share of the city's liquor money. So far the city has given the hospital only one-quarter of the total liquor money received from the Provincial Government and has not decided yet whether it will give the hospital any more. A committee of the hospital directors will meet the civic authorities again on the matter in the near future and, in addition, will endeavor to secure liquor money from adjoining municipalities served by the hospital.

New efforts to collect arrears will be made by the board, which decided to appoint an assistant to the bookkeeper to carry out this work. Unpaid accounts carried by the hospital now amount to $35,000, it was stated.

The board's finance committee reported that the cost per day for patients during July was $4, including the cost of the X-ray and pathological departments.

Name Delegates.

D. E. Campbell, S. J. Drake and J. Parfitt were appointed delegates to the convention of the B. C. Hospital Association in New Westminster at the end of this month. It was said that the allocation of liquor money to hospitals and the necessity of putting hospital finances on a more secure basis would be leading themes of discussion at this convention.

The board accepted the recommendation of the training school committee that Miss McKenzie, the matron, be given authority to obtain a sufficient number of pupil nurses to bring up and maintain the training school at an average of sixty-five pupils, and that scholarships be provided by the board for the first and second year pupil nurses for general proficiency in theoretical and practical work at a cost of $75 per year to the hospital.

Mr. Wallace has been elected chairman of the board's finance committee for the next year.
